2014-07-10 01:22:01

Hi Again. A lot of this site has been the re-accumilation of all the previously published material that was scattered all over the web and made more presentable. Also, during this hiatus has been underway some new music which a preview of a couple of the tracks can be heard in the re-cap videos. What will this turn into? Ideas have included other singers, bases for remixes or entirely new songs/lyrics that have not been used, or the soundtracks for video. Stay tuned.

RE-CKWAL

The transition to CKWAL and the alienation that has been going on along with it as well as the newfound lands is quite unbelievable I would think from many others' perspectives ; maybe not though. I guess CKWAL is seemingly so young that what is left of SK wants to merge ideas, the world wants to quickly corrupt and misunderstand and having to go through all that again is well .. level : difficult. Recently travelled without much to show in the visual sense as the trip was turned out to be something quite different. The new music is on hold, but with so much stuff happening out there this year there doesn't seem to much need for it yet. This site may stay as is for an archive as some new concept has been raging with a domain of it's own. Will CKWAL survive? Will we be web-bound, is the question, and how does it translate in this world?

This just received; it took almost a year (if you are curious). These track orders are off though and it is possible to submit a two disc project. Not sure what this order is, may be they are making their own mixes. See earlier post for the actual album mastering notes. What you hear here is an mp3 version.

I have to listen on Soundcloud sometimes but discontinued my publishing account with them years ago for several reasons. This statement subject to change after further exploration and as this field finds other ways to address the issue and problems of publishing speed and the 'gray area' legalities associated with them. Some may not care, but the upcoming and rising stars have little protection from the bullies whom you cannot always see.

Summer may bring some unpublished mixes that got rejected, skipped over, misplaced or lost. with duplicate songs or never played tracks. Possibly, there was a minor reason why it didn't make it to the upper candidate series (a mixing mistake or something I didn't like with a transition) when listening to it at the time. These are the ones that are still pretty hot to listen to since their inception. I am short on new tracks and might be roaming around or taking a break, so I will be filling the time with these until the main mix of the next UCS is ready. Also, I am trying to perfect that last encore. I will update you if I ever 'nail' it. I backed up and sent all the mixes to the Berklee cloud, so I can try again. Special thanks to the state of Illinois and Nebraska and (*update*) Colorado for support (food stamps). As a vegan the regular food donations and kitchens can't help much with this area. Until they for some reason unexpectedly stopped them conveniently around lent and the middle of Ramadan, they helped me stay a strict Vegan. Then Jesus and the word had to pull me through with fasting most of the day until I could cook cheap (see below) and work on no sustenance until pay-day. I have been using this reliable little cooker for everything (including bread and cookies hand kneaded in the park). It is available from Bed Bath & Beyond. The only catch is you need an outlet to plug it into and the suspicions it gives to the neighbors. See Eric Theiss's twitter for other product links, ideas and updates. I am posting this unpublished mix early to help honor Fathers' Day. To my father and parents' fathers (some not here to share this with us in person). In other news... the Ckwal LP has received a final master for iTunes by Darkart Mastering. However, Ckwal is moving this week, so it will be some time before I can publish CKWAL on the store. When you click on one of these iTunes links look for the track highlighted in blue for the one I am linking to. The one with the star next to it is one Apple suggests for whatever reason. I compiled many links for some of the key posts below on PromoDJ for some super-quick reference. I think we are moving the base of our operation before the end of the month, but more regular updates are of course. Are you here yet?

Dear Online readers, The first CKWAL MIX 2017012 Candidate is finished. It was a tough blend of styles and I can't wait to share it with you. It will probably be the twelfth Official mix of the year. I don't really want to move on from 011! One because I'm worried about being able to get more music and also because I'm relieved to be where it finally took me. To top that off, I was barely able to stay Vegan. Tougher than you would think. Anyways, it will be a year near the end of the summer and that is something I thought I'd never say in my life and definitely not for that long. When the budget gets tough and you're trying to buy tunes for two or more mixes a month and juggle a really strict diet of course there is help out there, but not if you are really picky. I will also be sorting through these Unpublished Mixes and trying to get this album master out before the end of the year. The one I have up is good, but the newest one was worth the wait for this kind of music. Having fun out in the sun.

Hmm. Made another attempt last night and spent about 12 hours in a spiritual war after a decent day. It's got some transitions to die for, but it's a little too much for a list. So far it's been like days of nightmares alternated by dream days. I am calling this a Good Samaritan mix dedicated to Catholicism, my guiding denomination since about late September/October 2016. Although I'm not moving per say, seems like some have requested this asap. On another note: I donated blood for the first time this year and found out where it went finally and I'd have to recommend doing it when you can, unless you have to do some real heavy manual labor for a few days after. Friday 23rd June 2017, 21:51 1:13:18 Polaris - deadmau5 The Sign - Ace of Base Ready - Joey Bada$$ (EXPLICIT) Sing Me to Sleep (Instrumental) - Alan Walker Russian Farmer Song - Keane Let Me Help You (Instrumental) - 12th Planet Dark Skies - Nero Manhattan Skyline - a-ha This single from EP version no longer available on iTunes What If You Were Wrong (Paxam Singles Series, Vol. 1) - Ryan Adams Touch It - Ariana Grande Lords (feat. # CKWAL MIX UNP04

2017-06-27 17:27:03

So far I've made two longer mixes. They are difficult to listen to in one sitting. Both are similar in many of the tracks old and new (like the next top model), but as they are more difficult to make successfully without flaw it is going straight to UNP04. A candidate for #12 ends with 'Changing' by John Mayer and as we are still on break, keeping the 11's as the background/focus; Ckwal stays there. This mix (UNP04), I hit sync a couple times and it matched up to the high hat. This flaw and a controversial interruption of a slow version of 'Rollin' early with 'Build the Cities'. This could be a cool technique, but it isn't perfected yet, so this amazing nearly 1.5 hour mix is not able to be #12. So, here is the new UNP. The previously scheduled UNP04 is actually main mix worthy because it doesn't have any mistakes like this, but it is staying scheduled at the stroke of midnight on July 4th, 2017 (Independence Day in the U.S.). Obviously, it will be called UNP05, because it was a candidate earlier in the year that was never published or mainstreamed. By the way, we just passed one week in and around our new base after our 'Firestone' (which I think is a mistake if you listen closely). Heading Westward... Sunday 25th June 2017, 21:26 1:25:52 Team - Local H Two Minds - Nero Forget - Marina and The Diamonds 2Night - Eric Prydz blend mash to... Can You Dig It (Matteo DiMarr Remix) - CamelPhat We Come 1 2.0 (Armin Van Buuren Remix) - Faithless Unstoppable (Extended Mix) - Afrojack Next Level (Nicky Romero Edit) - John Christian Worst Behavior - Drake (CLEAN VERSION) The Line - Phish Strangers to Ourselves - Modest Mouse Touch It - Ariana Grande Ready - Joey Bada$$ (EXPLICIT) blended loop mash using... This MixList is actually flawless, it just used many tracks as another Upper Candidate that had the right energy for that time. One song (not from the lyrics) I actually followed. That was the tune that brought me to MixLists when I discontinued streaming audio. This was immediately after my talks with Sony Russia resulting from asking permission to use a tune from Sony América Latina. So, what I'm doing now is kosherly and PC legal. Almost everything posted is ready to buy and mix in the club. Also, they have been tested to work with each other. Possibly not the easiest transitions always, so I recommend practicing the end to the beginnings minimally or maximally to keep the track fresh for you. Thursday 19th January 2017, 00:35 63:45

Snuck a couple in last night/this morning. One I was about to publish, but a sync beat that was an accident ruined the whole thing. If my iPad causes the glitch I don't disqualify it right away, but if you hack into my archive and listen to the mix - you might say something isn't perfect. Trying for that summertime sadness vibe without losing the energy. So, there are big tempo changes and some songs I practiced as surprising half mash-ups, two big ones made it here - 'Bombay' with 'SuperLove' and 'Colors in Your Eyes' with 'Bounce Back'. They pay remembrance to Miss Monique's surprise play of a hard to find version of Bank's 'Waiting Game'. My only mistake is getting to risky at end in the extended hour and 12 min. mix which tries to mix 'Insect' by Curbi to 'Bubblegum' by Jordi Rivera & Sonny Bass . I love 'Bubblegum' as an ending track and I bet you hear it as a finale by someone this summer. Anyways, I am just ending it where I broke space for a first ending at 'Animal Ambition'. Working for and with them (along with my Parents and Grandparents for an early birthday present). I was able to stay Vegan at a crucial time which came down to the 11th hour three specific times. Make it or break it has been defined to the penny and second too many times to count in the past year. It will be one year some time during the end of the summer. Every person that becomes Vegan saves between 200-300 animals in a year. See the Fuel II post for other links. Also, I was able to make this mix.

Bought this as a gift for someone else and wasn't able to order myself a copy until now. I went to school with part of this band and toured with Jay, but now I am like a fan. Their music has grown considerably from talented beginnings. It's different from a lot of these MixList vibes, but not far off from places I have been before. I recommend the ones you can find on these sites because most products you see on Moja Music may disappear without notice. See their links below.

Song progression from last post

*Update* Correction on order of Bombay and Marrakesh 7.17.19 * I didn't get it perfect by any means, but it works. I have attempted some new mixes with these tracks and won't redo this one, just wanted to try it like a pro and realized that although it is a shame to break some of them up, I will never be able to get it quite the same with the same spirit infused. Much like attempting to redo one of my own mixes if I make some small mistake that makes it unpublishable. From #69 1-6 and 9-14 Since it's my birth month and I'm sign 69 I let myself go for it. Franc Moody - Got The Light [JUICEBOX] Mawi - CO2 [DOORN (SPINNIN')] PARX - Waiting On You [POTION] Zac Samuel - Losing You [PMR] Offaiah - Run [VIRGIN EMI (UNIVERSAL)] MOGUAI - Tinhauser [SPINNIN' DEEP] *Miss Monique - Bombay (Sebastian Weikum Remix) *Nino Garcia - Marrakesh MOGUAI - Tinhauser [SPINNIN' DEEP] Offaiah - Run [VIRGIN EMI (UNIVERSAL)] Zac Samuel - Losing You [PMR] PARX - Waiting On You [POTION] Mawi - CO2 [DOORN (SPINNIN')] Franc Moody - Got The Light [JUICEBOX] Drake - Redemption

Trying something new

2017-07-12 20:02:20

I haven't heard back from anyone that has actually tried to do any of these mixes. So, I decided to try one of my favorite progression of songs from Magic Tape #69. Well, it's the first six songs, then I added a couple in the middle. After that went backwards on the six songs in the same order and ended it with a Drake song from my favorite album of the year so far (not the newest one - haven't heard that yet.) It sounds good, but not sure if it's a MixList or what. It was a different experience as I don't usually do mixes like that and glad I now have all those tracks that many were unavailable for some time. That's my update for today.

Update

2017-07-17 23:30:50

Made some great attempts and I thought at least one made it to the #13, but they all had at least one mistake that put it in the UNP category (not the 3 of the perfect exceptions). I bought a few new tracks and will have to try again. I bought the new Calvin Harris album and was really disappointed with how it left me, so I have more than a few regrets with how things are going this week. I'll try to have a '13' by my birthday, but I'm going to my first concert in a long time this week (hint: style goes under the name of música tropical). Perhaps I should go to a movie instead.

11th Potion Notes

Below I am sharing some notes on this Jungle Essence Album. I was choosing by title and getting lucky, but decided to take descriptive notes as it is easy to get lost in here. Unedited notes by track name. See the mixes by track names used for album purchase link. If you like this one there are others grouped under Armoracya Recordings. I discovered this label of enchanting music on Traxsource. Tibet - Rainforest, congas, shuffle after intro goes forward upward bass and singing exotic birds Marrakesh - Triangle, congas and 4 on floor start to ahhs oohs and low vibey sounds with lots of space trading back to highs and conga solo riffs Rwanda - Drone loop and refresh vamp minimal Lynx - old school Will Smith rap-like intro beat to elm street riff then wah with fem vocs sparingly at first then adds more near words, sounds like an error almost in beat. Its a stumbley double bass hit. Touch of congas or hand drums Colorfull Forest - On Mix 2017013. Long solid beat intro to unique bass flow rhymic pulse. Trumpet melody exchanges to water light birds and key chord then adds back fading sounds to shore Astriaka - Taut medium tone drum, 4 floor bass beat with a pulse machine type repeat to bass vamp and a 007 string sound. Continues to verse a marimba line then weaves these ideas into a conga highlight and so on back through Fjords - Higher 4 beat with video game repeat and verby tube melody. Bass escalates in busy-ness mostly three notes up to octave or near on 1,3,4. Melody turns to sparse commentary like in a cave. Hangkuk - On Mix 2017013 Encore. Some high chanting voice and steady groove throughout with vehicle going by sometimes. There is a synth-like ceremony dance group that buzzes into it. The signature-sound congas are in here most of it with that long decay verb.

Here is the post I was talking about in the 37 days of July. Well, it's August somewhere today. I hadn't checked on these trouble- makers until recently to figure out tracks to put in the mixes and I don't recommend getting hooked unless you want your life shaken up. They were great company in my CDL school which I may never use, but there were pictures of Virginia with a Peterbilt that put me over the edge around the same time as my road trip down to New Orleans and back to Chicagoland before the Gold Rush westward in search of a new home. See her online profile here. This isn't the freshest mix, but I brought in a few of my favorites and a few of the last ones I have left. I had to sell or donate all of my CDs for real cheap, so what gets listed next I have rebought or discovered for the first time. I could only afford one more Paradise, Sara, but it has just been released. The one that started it all. I published Episode 8 in 2016. This mix was originally around three parts of three mixes that were remixed together. This mix made in Erbil, Iraq in summer of 2013 around Ramadan. Published for a very short time and few have heard it. Most songs are highly altered or SKMinized with other tracks. Featured desktop image from 7.24.2013 with background from a rooftop in Erbil. Shortly after I would go to Thailand with a stayover in Qatar. BULLETS *(CLUB MIX) - Rebecca & Fiona mashed with* Gears III - SKMillion *Tiesto's Club Life I Version *(SKM Punch Up) ('been forever it seems' - clip I.D.) weave to Iced Out (Calvin Harris Remix) - BURNS weave to On the Dancefloor (feat. will.i.am and apl.de.ap) - David Guetta weave to Excuse Me - Boys Noize Fucking Die 2 (€€ Cooper Mix) - Skrillex weave to & w/ Professional Griefers (feat. Update: This mix is dedicated to Jeff D. After removing this from Soundcloud after several weeks between living in Iraq and Thailand, Jeff had the only other copy besides me and possibly a mastering studio in the U.K He suggested Ratatat to me and I bought a vinyl record later to give him the digital copy. He ended up not wanting it. Later, I had to give up all my records in Chicago around 2016 mostly to Reckless.

Tried to see Prince Royce on the 19th, but there were so many phones and he started with video in the back which as you know we only do music this year (or some claim to). However, I got see Luis Coronel. I'm in the middle of this sea of mostly ladies dressed up to woo these Latinos in the bright lights. Luis had a sore voice I think from so much perfume in the air, but this band was on point. The horns reminded me of DMB when they still had Leroy (if they had hung out playing in South America for a year). Royce is the next Latino Justin Beiber mixed with Ricky Martin unless he goes thug on us and although this was not the smallest ballroom in Denver, it was already getting tight to contain this kind of energy. In other updates, I am mixing a bunch of older tunes to make sure you know I don't limit the music in styles or decades. Also, to make sure I can do them together and because of budget. 7/26 *Addition: I have made a great mix which is again glitched out like another of my encores. I'll probably post it anyways, because it is a good nearly full encore to the 2017013. It's a pain, but if anyone is running into this problem on an old iPad, all you have to do it clear up space and get rid of all your mixes (delete them) and delete the app and reinstall the app.* 7.28 *Additional edit: I am planning a fresh mix for next month dedicated to my favorite Victoria's Secret and/or Maxim models from late 2015 early 2016. One of which may have inspired me to get a few extra letters on my driver's license.

Sometimes you have to make a major change to half or double the speed of the next song. If you haven't listened to the song much or change your mind you might do this by accident. I thought I scrapped this mix because I was putting it together with a bunch of people around watching movies or TV and wasn't into the feeling of the songs much. After the second listen, I posted the last mini-story and now walking around on the third listen (or second if you don't count the mix) and I have to share it immediately. Though I am out of new songs pretty much now. Instagram or Soundcloud artist links follow iTunes Store links (abbreviated).

CKWAL MIX UNP08

Date

2017-08-13 23:39:55

This is like an alternate version to Part II of Mix 2017014 with an extra new song cause Nevve is on the modern top versatile singers list I have to compile. It's tough to put yourself on that many tracks that all sound top notch, look good on the covers and release that often. We'll see if she can keep the record going. Reasons it is in the Unpublished (UNP) Series: There is one transition with that live turntable jam style like in SKM MIX 1, except, with one spot that is botched a couple beats. Also, because this was pretty much an exclusive dedication and this explicit 50 Cent track made it for a different crowd. The way surface ends it is a little creepy in this mix. However, There are a couple mashups and the like that umph them to newness, one that should be put as remixes on the iTunes store - like Frame with Cold Heart. It takes a lot of perfectly timed filtering and some real-life inspiration like Molly on that Lean with Deadmau5. I wasn't going to even put it up, but I've been displaced again and this one will set you straight if you are going through a similar change. Wednesday 9th August 2017, 22:36 48:02 Something Real (feat. Nevve) - Dubvision No Warning - Signal (long overlap) Chase the Paper (feat. ## Dedicated Mix #2

Date

I was missing this mix. The only playable version I have of this is locked on PromoDJ, so I redid 2016008. Example's track is from a different website and since I don't have a desktop computer anymore I cannot get it on this iPad. During this new mix, I left Lil Wayne's rap in and added some other ones as well as a few other changes. I'm putting it in the dedicated series reflecting on and around the time I was in East St. Louis/Granite City and attempting to drive for Prime. Nothing like the hot dusty streets around Chain of Rocks on the border of the river that separates you from St. Louis. I also was off the highway / farm field Days Inn where I was rejected from Prime after nearly driving all the way back to central Missouri. Actually, I selected tracks for the next couple of mixes there and this one I published when I returned to Chicagoland. The mix is now updated to where I am now with new meaning about why that journey most likely never continues in the way it was going for me. However, it's dedicated to a local company with whom I experienced life's trials and another interview that revealed to me the stark reality of one's past choices. Tuesday 15th August 2017, 9:08 53:03 Let Me Love You (feat. # Regeneration to Ckwal

2017-08-09 01:31:07

I thought now might be a good time to tell a short story on how we got to the name Ckwal. I've been in all sorts of bands and artist projects since my first band called Lighthouse. However, Ckwal started with a myspace.com project originating as Steve's Killah Music. 'Killah' was a popular word or slang for cool in the 80's and obviously I was using this adjective to describe the music I wanted to make. A little later this was shortened or changed to SKMillion. SKMillion was a name that came from a relative who quoted about a girl he was seeing at the time that, "When I am with you I feel like a million dollars." Of course I first heard this when he asked me to record a strange poem-like present for him to give to her as a Valentine's gift or something like that. So, when publishing my first music videos I was experimenting with in Taiwan to reconnect with lost friends and relatives I quickly came up with this name as the abbreviation for the previous name and adding 'Million'. Some time after returning to the United States and getting a sense that this name bothered some people, especially a good friend who helped me 'repatriate' (so to speak) to the US; I started making up my mind to change it. After getting in the gym and listening to the podcasts I listed everyday (up to three or four a day) and 'reverse culture-shock', I call it, I hit a strange plateau as some people may identify with where, well, "nothing was the same". I was on a weird schedule and 'frozen' some nights in a blissful state of returning to good health and losing a lot weight combined with the rejuvenation of the mind. I guess I was listening to a lot of powerful music and trying to catch up to my goals in a really short time. Anyways, some places I was trying to get to now seemed for ever out of reach in the real world and in my head, because they were uncatchable or I simply passed myself. Besides keeping record of my favorite tracks from the podcasts, after some time the only thing that kept me grounded was making beats and bass grooves on a Roland DR-880. A lot of these grooves are the basis for the self-entitled album CKWAL. I drew some sketches with SKM kind of cut in half and reflecting on itself (some with an arm & hammer type logo) and thought of a anacronym I heard about LUCK that used to bother me for some reason. An old album name I made in Taiwan was called 'LUCKY' until I changed it to LUCK which stood for (Living under Christ's Kindness) in that anacronym. So I took my name out of the artist name and substituted the 'S' for a 'C'. Flip the M and so forth. Take a look at this early picture attached to this short-story. I was working under full moons and an owl-perch like zone.

TOP LIST 01 & Dedicated Mix #3

Date

2017-08-24 16:37:14

This is a list of vocalists who sound good on most tracks they do. It's also a sort of 'my favorites list' in a kind of certain sound. I didn't enjoy doing this at first because a singer's voice is personal and possibly so is my taste. So, I felt really critical and almost embarrassed for myself and the places it took me, but like any good house song I eventually fell in the groove and found the light. I was a voice principal at Berklee, so I am not totally unqualified to do this project. However, if you just got into DJing I would take on this challenge after your first year. I started by reviewing my own podcasts and then went to almost every feature singer from Felix Cartal and Gareth Emery (the pimps of single singer tracks). It doesn't really include the super famous ones like Ariana Grande or Usher, but I included a few with already accomplished clout. Once I hit the maximum numbers for three TOP LISTS I stopped and will carry over those histories, I didn't fully listen to, the next TOP LIST. This is PART ONE which I subtitle as 'FELIX CARTAL'S Harem' I only got through Felix's list of features found on sources like Soundcloud, Beatport and Wikipedia. He doesn't have too many repeats. The attached mixes for this series will have some of the best singers that may or may not be on the top 11, 5 or 7. PART TWO will go into GARETH's features found on garethemery.com and Beatport. I also may have used some sites like Traxsource and Youtube (scrolling away from the videos of course to hear the audio and read comments for more information if needed). This is a great way to 'dig' for new tracks for all MixList aspirers. Check up on some of these artists' features and what they do now and branch off from there. It's a little arduous at first, but when you find a few new ways to go, you'll pick up momentum. I have a few lists here and we will start with females only. TOP 10 (FEATURES) = They sound good on almost every featured track and most usually work on others' songs rather than their own EPs or albums. Links after go to Soundcloud or Beatport. Then there is the TOP 5 (ALBUM TYPE) = They may do features too, but when checking them out I ended up discovering a different sound on an independent collection of tracks with either their name or another project name. After their name I put the first song I heard by them. Finally, there is the TOP 7 (REQUESTS). Either they need more recent song features or in the type of these DANCE POP style that isn't in superstar mainstream, but in a DJs repertoire for podcasts or festivals. Another way they could go to the TOP 7 would be they have a killer sound on one or two tracks, but feature a totally different voice on the majority of their others and I am requesting more like their BEST TRACK. The mix or mixes with new tracks I discovered on this sidetrack series will be on a future mix. TOP 10 Bosco - New album called b. Bright Lights - LISTEN AUDITION Sam Bruno - New EP called I AM SAM PT. 1 AUDITION Delaney Jane - AUDITION Ofelia K - Listen Kiesza - Listen Luciana - Listen Clara Mae - Listen MØ - Listen Sigrid - Listen TOP 5 Sophia Black - Vibration (Penthouse Penthouse Remix) N/A CATZE - Parallel Lines Nini Fabi \(Haerts\) - Slow Motion Amanda Fondell - Smoke Becky G - Sola TOP 7 Chloe Angelides - Ready for Love Alice Berg - Freeze Time & Golden Hearts Brave aka Br^ve - Alive [SINIQ REMIX] Garielle Current - Lost Art Katt Niall - Diamonds Nevve - Jump , Surface and Something Real (Actually I don't know what list she goes on because I previously had a link that was probably wrong and I only know of these three songs.) I had three or four attempts at this mix and ended up starting this published one without my favorite two-song intro that started every other mix (which I may never tell). I usually never redo a mix. Good practice for real life. Get it right the first time or get people looking at you strange and heading to the bar or for the door. The other ones got messed up in the Traktor app and wouldn't load or backup the full mix. This one made it out. While listening and typing it out for you I went to Harvey Houston in my head until 'Way Back Home'.

One Year a Vegan +

Date

2017-09-05 03:50:23

I just passed about a year and a month as a vegan. Over the year I became homeless and phased out all leather and animal products I previously owned. I slowly got stricter with my self-education by ditching all animal products in medicine, soap, blankets, clothing, toothpaste etc. It's difficult to say the least moving around and running out of money. Then rushing to get food stamps in time as most shelters serve many meat products and then desperately seeking work to meet the bills of education. Then, if you are really challenged, cooking your own cheap rations in the park or pines to cut down on costs further and hand washing clothes to dry by the river. Thanks to all who pushed me to the next level cause even though it was a pain a lot of the time, I know I'm prepared for a lot more than a year ago as a struggling artist. Now my artist self is more of a mixer/writer than an instrumentalist/vocalist/songwriter, but it has never been easy in one way or the other. You can donate to Ckwal to help with basic costs, some tracks and to get Ckwal more official at the bottom of the page. This is a highly independent cause and if you are ever in the area or support travel you can choose to go on a Ckwal experience which was the idea to have on Kickstarter, but I'd rather raise funds and do that kind of thing on a more private level. Thanks for listening and please support the individual artists and labels to continue making good music. Sometimes it seems like a lot of big artists are making tons of money, but a lot of them can't ever go back to normal jobs or lower standards of living. *Update 9/28* I reposted this after writing my 'appalled' post. I'm not trying to convert anyone, just trying to tell the truth as most musicians do in some form or another. After yesterday and many times in the past year and two months of going Vegan to detox I felt like I really wasn't Vegan at all and it feels like failure.

I'm tired of finding animal products in everyday things we use and eat and being lied to about their names. Things growing up as kids if we even read we wouldn't know anything about and even as grown adults we may never know. Drug companies and fast food chains. I couldn't find one pain killer in Denver that was animal product free and even a store pharmacy couldn't put together a simple ingredient pain killer. McDonald's fries - made with cows, Sobe LifeWater made with insects. Most cheap sugars are filtered through bone char, so this includes almost every soda and homemade desert from the naive buyer. A lot of paper, the stuff you lick on an envelope, soaps and every single plastic bag you take from the grocery store may have some animal fat in it. Cigarettes, some beer, receipts. Most of the time it is not even necessary, just cheap or people are too lazy to change. Even products stamped Vegan on them that are produced or packaged in a facility that share equipment with egg or dairy products shouldn't be allowed to put Vegan there. For example, those cookies in 711 by Lenny & Larry. The Lemon Poppy one used to be the only one that didn't have this disclaimer, but recently they changed it. On the final note - computers. I'm probably typing this on a machine made with animal products built into it. To be honest why not just put an animal product stamp on everything - right on the front. More on this topic found in this updated post

On the third track of this mix. I donated blood a second time after the eligible time and was waiting to hear back where it was going to in the world. I didn't really hear back for awhile. When I heard this track on one of my regular feeds, I couldn't really relate to the meaning because my real siblings have faded somewhat from my existence, but then a little later I remembered and it put a whole new meaning to our connectivity with anonymous strangers.

Officially we started these mixes in 2016 (over the dateline from 2015), but I did my first remix during College for someone who needed it for a business or something. I spent as much time as I could before the deadline (everything manually without stems in Pro Tools \(video link\) and a Lexicon MPX1) and even made a nice label for the CD remixing Lifehouse's "Hanging By A Moment" . The short Asian chick who got me this 'gig' came back later told me they put it in their car radio and it ate up the CD, ruined their car stereo and that they were pissed. Of course we were mad at them. Way back before this though I bought one of the first scratchable CD players by Pioneer because I thought it was the coolest thing I had ever seen at the time. Not sure if I used it for anything but playing CDs. Even before this I used to play music in those 100 disc players and had some intelligent lights, a fog machine for our band and one night I tried to have a party that no one showed up to, so I danced to Prodigy's 'Fat Of The Land' just like you would in any club in a thick misty basement. I won't go back any further in this story for now. I guess I making an excuse for making 016 have some many parts, but it was made possible by a couple compilations of 2016 and 2017 by UKF and CR2 Records that were recently on sale for a ridiculous value that I usually cannot buy due to guilt, but since I am barely having enough to eat, I thought they would be okay with letting me audition 78 tracks for something like 6.99 to possibly use in the next MixList. When you have been listening to mixes long enough in headphones at the gym or walking around, you learn to change the perspectives around. Sometimes one may hear their voice as a singer from the opposite sex or a different age group. Or people you know may move around to different singers in the same way. At first it may give you some identity problems and one might feel like going to a therapist, but it is a really good mental exercise that helps you understand the world a little better. I used a lot of songs that could have put this at part five in the last series, however I made some other attempts at this particular zone or period in my thinking which stood alone from the other four. Another note with some of these old tracks. Carpark North says, "I am not your Jesus." This is important for listeners to remember as some of these DJs stretch their arms out in the traditional pose and fans may joke about the example that performers set in their shows. He may help us, be with us or his presence may be with us; keeping us close to what is important in loving life, but as the commandments Moses came down from the mountain with say, "Do not make unto thee any graven image." I split the big alternate version mix I redid as I mentioned in this post called 'redos'. It took some major patience and practice with these combos, but it came back to me eventually. I cut out 'Congratulations' cause I hear it played too often and cut short 'Happy', but played the whole song of 'Forget'. 'Forget' in the first Alternate Version is cut really short partially by accident, which works, but leaves you cheated (wanting the rest). 'Rollin' was the only song I liked off of Funk Wav Bounces Vol 1, which changed after awhile. Then I got sick of Rollin cause it was overplayed, but recently I hit a slump and could only listen to this song over and over trying to memorize Future's rap. So, that single and 'Forget' kept me going at the start to redo this one and finally make Part I new for Halloween 2017. Part II - TBD. Lampshades On Fire - Modest Mouse Cry Wolf - a-ha Nightmare on My Street - DJ Jazzy Jeff & The Fresh Prince partial overlap during phone call at the end to... Shrine - Artificial Intelligence I guess these come full circle with the first 012 series as I made a third and fourth unit of blood donations at Red Cross at the same time called a Power Red. It's a little more intense during the donation, but is a little less of a drag afterwards. There were some issues with the site I used for converting to mp3 saying I was forbidden to download my own conversions at wavtomp3.online. It used to work if you changed browsers, but not today. So, I found a new one that allows free Google Drive conversion and online uploading without downloading the conversion at this site. Thanks to Berklee College of Music for our Alumni account drive. You can also search under google drive plug-ins for mp3 converter. I really recommend cloudconvert.com if you can afford it for accurate volume levels and customizations as well as automatic conversions for specific folders. Of course I use these for checking the mixes before posting the MixList to make sure they were valid and I can say all of these were performed successfully at one point.

I am exercising my patience by redoing some of these mixes. The cloudconvert site that makes the best quality conversions limited me to a certain time on conversions and I must have deleted the original .wav files to a few mixes. Anyways, one of them was 2017012AV (the alternate version to #12 of 2017). Find it with this tool. It's actually almost two hours (those details were left out in the original post). It's really a tough one on a couple transitions, so I am making it two parts and trying to find new meaning with it's new start and ending points. Or go to this mix I am talking about directly here. New music will be probably around Halloween although I'll tell you 'A Nightmare On My Street' by DJ Jazzy Jeff & The Fresh Prince is defining it already as well as 'Will 2K' by Will Smith to ring in 2018 on the dateline. Also, Ckwal is trying to release the self-titled LP (iTunes mastered version) for sale on the iTunes store exclusively by Christmas.

Since this major journey started in 2012 when I hit play on the first podcasts I listened to (probably Nicky Romero), there were times I would have sworn to you that this was the only way to save your life. Don't get me wrong, it did, but I left the social networks and if someone were to ask if they should follow me or anyone who has made it to the stage I wouldn't know what to say to them. And don't think any style or genre cult is going to change the path to whether you live or die. One may associate rock with bars and pop dance with the gym, but we are not at war with each other. We are fighting the grave or becoming dust on the sea. For expansion on this topic, read 2017017's intro. A Wikipedia article on the Third Commandment.

This was a difficult mix to finish. I kept botching it up somewhere, going for the mashes and they didn't sound quite right or the blend/weave was imbalanced. I went and spoke to the U.S. Army on my job search and they told me I just passed the age limit when he said, "You can't." I left with a strange feeling of regret and went to the open field/park where I starting making bread here and finally completed the mix. Tuesday 24th October 2017, 17:58 (7% Battery Left) 55:06

More about this mix and what I am planning in November is written in the previous post. I have been able to get some new songs via donations with just a little sacrifice in the next few days.

Dedicated #5 (Vegan Halloween)

Recently I reached out to all my remaining contacts for the first time since I launched the website in 2014. I don't track visitors especially after discontinuing streams for permission on PromoDJ to MixLists. It was nice to hear back from a Lighthouse Band supporter, member (previous project) and family I haven't talk to for awhile. I will get back to those who have contacted me and would appreciate others' assistance and perspective! To sum: With an early Christmas present and Ckwal's first donation, I'm back in the eye of the storm. Why did we break the no mass email rule? Well, I hit an 'emergency point' let's say. I personally fasted for the first time with water only for over thirty-six hours during a waiting period. The mix below was after around the thirty hour point. I had recently filtered all the remaining tracks from the UKF and CR2 albums I wanted to use and grabbed a few more tracks, I didn't think I wanted to use for this purpose and put this together finishing at 3:53 am this past Tuesday. It is quite an addicting listening combo without catching in your head - and eerily, nearly perfect. So, it is this year's official, Vegan Halloween Mix. Tuesday 17th October 2017, 3:53 40:56 Kuaga - Pierce Fulton Speed of Sound (feat. Tricia McTeague) - Aly & Fila Collide (feat. Daniel Gidlund) - Third = Party Men In Black - Will Smith I See U - Dawn Wall Paranoia - Tascione & Kompany Good To Me (feat. Majesty) - Brookes Brothers Just Cruisin' - Will Smith Keep It Moving - Ulterior Motive Three More Days - Ray LaMontagne OK, the link attached to Vegan is Moby. ## Next Mixes Update

Working on this next mix and adding a new song with each new donation that I receive. It is proving to be rather challenging with all this new input and trying to mix the remaining songs from those massive collections. I am also trying to mash two acoustic type country based songs (an old one and a new one) with these monsters. Another mix that threw a wrench into my life, like one of those Magic Tapes I couldn't stop listening to and had to try to duplicate, was Ummet Ozcan's Innerstate Episode 158. I was thinking of trying to remake this because something broke my world when I listened to it the first time and I need to fix it. In the meantime I'm collecting them one at a time as well and may add a version and/or a song that helps them blend with this project that is challenging me at the moment. Sometimes I just do it and it cannot be improved on. This one I know can be perfect for what I want to send you, but it makes me want to give up on it every time.

This is kind of two projects in one with an * by the Ummet Ozcan Mix tracks that I was going to use to re-do Innerstate 158 & then I mashed up one of his originals with 'Feel Good Now' by Mark Knight. I already used a different version of Axwell & Ingrosso's 'More Than You Know' in 2017018 & another remix of Avicii's 'Without You' in an exclusive mix. I did quite a few mix, listen, re-listen and delete mixes with notes. One of the best future combos was Men on Mars to Water by Galantis. The lyrics say: "Can't go back Can't fight this Water, water Teardrops are falling like rain Daughter, daughter Still hear you calling my name I'll see your light In the water for all my life" I know I already used 'Rush' in our Halloween DJ Set and it's in the exclusive, so I did like a double overlap mash where part of the song mashes with one track and then the end mashes with a different track while somewhere in the middle it goes solo. (Like a lot of singers' careers.) Sunday 5th November 2017, 19:45 1:01:36 Don't Kill My Vibe (Gryffin Remix) - Sigrid Truth Be Told - THEY. EXPLICIT tempo down to 62 and add delay/verb with... I don't read often as I have probably said before on this blog. Of course I read lyrics and other philosophical definitions of reading. Since I'm revealing all sorts of secrets to readers of this blog online; I have read two books during the past five years or longer. Starting last year and finishing this year I read this version of the Bible in compact easy-to-understand English. Before that, after I returned from Iraq and Thailand, I read Red Queen by Victoria Aveyard. I'd like to think they both define me to this day in ways I won't forget. I tried to read the sequels to Red Queen, but never could get into them. *Update 11.15.17 I almost forgot I read Lakota Belief and Ritual by James R. Walker. I shouldn't be giving out any tracks before they make a MixList, but I'm sort of struggling to get a mix with the tracks I have now (that isn't reusing too much). I'll probably get one mix posted before the end of this week. If you are looking for some listening material, grab this compilation called 'Made in Germany, Vol. 13'. It is categorized under Recovery Tech or mostly the Tech House sub-genre. Good for those clubs in odd parts of the city, homework or research at work or crawling the town in the cold. Traxsource is cool because you can click 'play all' and preview whole albums or select a ton of previews that look good individually and then do other searching while waiting for a track to jump out to you. The rest of my proposed schedule for November and December looks like this: December Mix Ideas special posts -*Will 2K New Years Eve (New Mix) -Best of 2017 Mix -12 Days of Christmas Mixes (2 parts) *Vegan cookies for Hanukkah?* November Mix Ideas -*Favs and some new ones -If funded, do New Mix 2nd week or favs part II -Best Male Vocalists feature (possibly 2 parts) or New Mix can add Ummet-Mock-Redo if didn't overdo tracks in others *Vegan Thanksgiving special feature (How to do it and knock away some turkeys -((without bodybagging them)) )*

Ckwal Album Note

Date

2017-11-12 19:29:10

It'll be a little while until the next MixList and a lot longer until the next CKWAL album. I sold, traded or donated almost everything last year and this year. I just listened to the mp3s of the debut CKWAL LP again which was the first album of mine to ever be professionally mastered (under any artist name). I already mentioned some album notes, but another secret was the ending of the second disc. It pays respects to a rock song by Disturbed called 'Who Taught You How To Hate'. I was in a challenging situation and listening to a lot of albums and mixes to get me through it. The lyrics go like this: "Tell me now, who taught you how to hate? 'Cause it isn't in your blood Not a part of what you're made So let this be understood Somebody taught you how to hate When you live this way you become Dead to everyone" The last track of CKWAL called "When you live like that...." hammers a similar melody. People live online lives that may hinder their healthy communication habits or treat others in a way that ostracizes themselves from their peers. Sometimes it isn't their fault. Friends and family members stop responding because , at least how it was in 2013, everyone who had a social account thought they were in a competition for fame against their own friends. That is in my belief when social media has gotten out of control. Those with talent are sometimes pushed into the starlight even when they don't want to famous while some change their artist name or stop sharing to stay underground. Others force themselves into popularity or buy it not knowing if they are walking through the right door. Anyways, not sure where this puts us going forward, but I wanted to share this story and how I keep a good album with me even when I can't carry it in my luggage anymore. Other notes on the album found here and here with some other notes and general Ckwal 're-generation' found at this link.

The mix couldn't be fully recovered in upload and I deleted it before I recovered the visual tracks, so it ends before the Wild Wild West track finishes and the rest of the intended mix's songs or releases complete. Also, unpublished series due to an awkward pause after 'Rush'. The transition from 'Lush' to 'Raw' is unmatchedable though. I might try to do one more mix next week, but the next main mix of all new or fresh selections won't be until the 18th of November at the earliest. Additional purchase quicklinks for reused tracks are on previous MixLists. # CKWAL MIX 2017019 Encore

2017-11-17 00:19:03

There is a little bit more of me in this one than usual. The reason is because some time back at the beginning of Ckwal I got curious with numerology and found my number is 9. Actually with me it's pretty straight forward. You add the pairs of digits three separate times and it adds up to three single nines. Every mix that is a nine in the past two years, I identify with strongly. On another topic I met or hung out with Chevelle in Milwaukee backstage after going to a show with my friend before I knew the music. He was also a rock guitarist and basically repeated the lyrics to me while listening to one of their first popular releases earlier and I was hooked ever since. Usually DJs have certain tracks to switch styles like this which is why artists like Skrillex exist, but here I am going with the darkness and gritty dance songs mixed with the saddest Drake rap and a track from the wedding album 'Don't Kill the Magic'. Wednesday 15th November 2017, 7:52 42:29 Disintegration (feat. MING & Lena Wolf) - Le Castle Vania The Damned - Chevelle Omen - The Dø Ride This Train (feat. Under the Knife - Chevelle Link to CKWAL MIX 2017019 CKWAL MIX 2017009 CKWAL MIX 2016009 Sometimes I feel like we leave ourselves on the page with these mixes. So in a sense, if you are reading this, you're too late. Another way of thinking is that these parts of us will never die. It's annoying at first to see yourself online like a mirror and think it was stolen, but we are more similar to each other than we know in a lot of ways. Update// Dedicated to: Mike Potesta

CKWAL MIX 2017020

I'm like a reader of this blog now because this mix will not load in Native Instrument's Traktor completely and it will not back up much at all. I know it was good and could play back some this morning, but of course it's frustrating to only hear track by track or while mixing it once.

Probably worse to only see a MixList with iTunes previews. Sure it can wait, but can you? I'm giving a shoutout to Miss Monique because I bought three tracks from the end of her perfect Mix 74 and used them in a double overlay mashup to be a little unique. Also, a shoutout to Tiësto. I think it was one of his second hour mixes when I almost gave up listening to podcasts when I heard an updated version, surprisingly set-up of 'Wanna Be Down'. The song re-lit a spark in my head that had gone out. Later, I searched for both the elusive version and found the original I remember from growing up. Both DJs share these types of tracks. One in particular was left out of Alesia's tracklists and never responded about what track it is. Drives me crazy. Final shoutout to R3hab who made the first remake of Rihanna's song that saved the track I thought flopped when the original was first played in podcasts. So, here is this new 3X shoutout mix, picking up where we left off with Chevelle. Ouija Board - Chevelle U-RITE (Rynx Remix) - THEY. EXPLICIT Bitch Better Have My Money (R3hab Remix) - Rihanna EXPLICIT LYM - Curbi & Hasse de Moor Kiera - Tone Depth & Jerome Isma-Ae after beginning section mashes with all of... I'm reviewing an encore to CKWAL MIX 2017019 I made early this morning. It's a bunch of older songs, so I have to let it grow for at least a day. In the meantime this album by J.Lauryn is really positive and is curing this rare mood I am in. I discovered her as a featured vocalist on a couple tracks I'd like to play. One was from the Spinnin' label, which consistently puts out singles I use in Mixes and enjoy listening to daily. You may recognize them as the big 'S' they put on almost every release. Update 5.19 Buy album at this link (no longer on soundcloud).

Top Male Feature Vocalists (Unofficial top 15 a.k.a. Top List 02)

Date

2017-11-26 21:52:17

I was trying to finish this list for November, but it probably won't happen ever. My new favorite feature vocalist is Khalid<sup>1</sup> who sounds like Calvin Harris<sup>2</sup> to me on his album. Actually I wanted to hear Calvin sing on his latest release, but instead he chose mega-stars or soon to be mega-stars. Khalid has some of his own tracks, but sounds consistently unique on these features. Since I started listening to this particular way of making music in this modern scene, I always pretty much liked Matt Koma<sup>3</sup>, though I haven't heard him lately. Also, Jonathan Mendelsohn<sup>4</sup> needs to be on more tracks like 'Open My Eyes' by Tom Swoon. Requesting more clean dark and true tracks similar to 'Get Busy' from Matisse & Sadko with featured vocalist Titus<sup>5</sup>. Some others on the top list would be Alex Aris<sup>6</sup> , A-sho<sup>7</sup>, the singer from Mako<sup>8</sup> (who should do features on others tunes), Jake Reese<sup>9</sup> from 'Mad World', Giuseppe De Luca<sup>10</sup>, Sanjin<sup>11</sup> , Alex Joseph<sup>12</sup> , Gavin Beach<sup>13</sup> and Rumors<sup>14</sup>  from Heldens' 'Ghost Town'. Finally let's talk about the vocal on one of my favorite tracks: Marc Kinchen's 'Piece of Me' [Camelphat Remix]. The voice that was created unless I'm misreading something here. It says it's featuring Becky Hill, but the voice they manipulated<sup>15</sup> sounds male and an amazing one at that. I have been fooled since I first heard it. Usually when they lower the voice it ends up sounding like my Mom doing a bad fake-out. Special thanks to Felix Cartal and Gareth Emery, the Procurers of Male vocalists, too. Gareth's Soundcloud link Felix's Soundcloud link Most links on this post go to a Soundcloud search for that vocalist which are mostly accurate to the singer listed. Most Soundcloud pages have other social links to visit on the right sidebar or under the track with the information. These default to a track search, so another way to find their own profile is to click 'people' and look for the orange star or most official looking page in the results. See the female top lists here.

12 Days of Christmas - First Day of Christmas

Date

2017-12-06 00:11:47

For lack of better findings, I'm settling on a theme for the next twelve days approximately. Using the lyrics of the popular Christmas song, I'll post some gift ideas, news article or at least one link pertaining to that gift of Christmas. If other stuff shows up in my search I'll do additional postings. "On the First day of Christmas my true love sent to me a Partridge in a Pear Tree." Holiday Pears and Wine Basket from Harry & David with birds on the pear box. Oh this is funny. Well not really. I was trying to find a bone shaped cookie cutter to make treats for the animal shelter I am volunteering at and researching recipes, (there are two dogs there looking for a home who would make a good companions ((Evelyn and Hudson)) and Khalid's new tour would approve!), when suddenly holiday Vegan Dog Treats appeared at Target. They don't say they are Vegan verified, because when have you heard of these ground-breaking, modern Dogs? Although a little suspicious, I was glad because I didn't want to figure out how I was going to cook dog treats in the park and figure out how to dry them enough to get the moisture ratio right. Here is the link for these Santa Snacks - Kringle's Cookies by Blue Buffalo - Order online or try browsing the pet section at your local Target store. I am not sponsored by anyone I mention on this site by the way, although TD Bank extends me an unassociated line of credit on their Red Card which will get you another 5% off everything. "On the Second day of Christmas my true love sent to me Two Turtle Doves." From livingwithbirds.com '21 Facts on Turtle Doves', "The turtle dove's song is a gentle, soporific purring, usually delivered from cover; where the birds are present it can be heard all summer." Going with our theme, I present you with two songs new to me this year. I heard this bluesy track on the radio today. Eight Maids a-Milking. On today's line I am having a dairy-free party. Therefore I am only making a shopping list for the items I have tried before and can vouch for their flavors. # Fifth Day of Christmas

2017-12-11 18:32:39

Five Gold Rings. Most of the mixes on ckwal.net contain a serious element of bond between the songs other than being mixed together. This is powerful music. If you are weak as a listener, the mix will make you a better overall person. As the adage says, "What doesn't kill you makes you stronger." Some include a jewel or mention of diamond/diamond ring which is a symbol of unbreakable power and a life expectancy beyond our human bodies. This should be intimidating as their beauty is deceiving. Like a bodybuilder or an expensive car, the maintenance and dedication is a commitment that some people underestimate. From reading the Red Queen, we learned about classes of people which can carry over to today's society in shapes and forms of colors or metals in their symbols. The three most notable being Gold, Platinum and Silver. Of the symbolic or meaningful colors in this context of silent communication we speak of are mostly red, green or blue. Another popular one for youth, which also last into old age are birthstones or pearls. They may refer to a favorite month you enjoy, your partner's birth month, or an important date when a couple first met or got married. In these mixes as someone who commits long periods of time combining songs and working for the perfect union of songs and emotions with people or ideas in mind, I sometimes will commit a person in time or group of people to these mixes. Music does this to us and it evolves over time. Sometimes it stays in its preserved form forever and listening back I remember the person as the music reflected to me as if captured in a portrait hanging in a museum. I guess this concept grows further with concerts, big events and groups of people with disc jockeys overtime. They grow together and individually while 'orbiting' the earth picking up new followers and losing others along the way. DJs add experience and repertoire as well as collaborate with new musicians. Some branch out of styles for complete albums and may return to their roots like Tiësto. I was going to list all the diamond songs and possibly review their dedications, but there are more than five to review that can pertain to this line of our theme, "Five Gold Rings". In addition to counting down the twelve day of Christmas, this also tells about what is on my mind in choosing the Year-line mix bond song or songs that accompany our sort of virtual host, Will Smith, to carry us into 2018 with Will 2K (Willenium). Yea this was for the year 2000 when we thought every computer was going to shut down due to bad date programming or a bug everyone overlooked. Now we look at so many LCDs with gelatin in them and cringe and may be a vegan hacker will get pissed and crash us all in 2020, but lets focus on next year. As I am in Nebraska I think about Adam Duritz and his song 'Long December'. This entire year has been challenging, trying to find a new home and a career while keeping an increasingly strict vegan diet and lifestyle while living from one homeless shelter to the next. I wouldn't have made it without support from the music and the people and places it led me to join. It may seem like a lot of talking or explaining to do and may be I reveal too many secrets on this webpage, but as I was an international teacher for quite some time after touring the States alongside Dave Matthews Band post graduation from Berklee College of Music, I sometimes sense an obligation to at least inform would-be stumblers online or 'out there'. Many people go along thinking everyone lives and understands the same knowledge, but the world isn't very small after all, unlike a Disney song lyrics say. Although it does feel small sometimes. Anyways, I thought I'd recap as this Christmas countdown is almost half over and we'll all probably be a little busy thinking of how to make next year proportionally better across many measurable and immeasurable ways. So, let's just recap the mixes with some mention of gold in the title or lyrics, the obvious audible extended hardrock ring like the entire album of Chevelle we recently listed and one interpretation of Drake's song, "10 Bands". I'll save any details on these mixes for another time and add the mix I mentioned yesterday instead following these links. The 'Five Golden Rings' post needs further editing and time to simmer as it is also going to be somewhat of a year recap and philosophy blog post. So, check out this page and click on calendar to buy tickets for the 2018 Winter Olympic Games in Pyeongchang. Also, I was able to get three more tracks to see if I can use some of the previously listed ones to work an official 2017/2018 or alternate version to accompany the swans swimming or ladies dancing. I don't think there will be a favorites mix as there were already a lot of old favorites and flashbacks/redos/dedication remakes. There might be a Christmas themed mix with one or two holiday songs with the rest being newer or previously never-played releases. This mix may have a couple parts and then if everything goes well there will be a third successful year-line mix which bridges the two years together. If not successful at the midnight time going into 2018 in Central time of the US, then I will reattempt several times and whatever dateline it lands on for 2017-2018 will get the dedication to the corresponding countries lying there. Possibly I'll even plan to go there in 2018.

I have bought most the tracks for the third annual year bridge today. I won't have much practice or planning and it isn't the easiest combo, but it's sort of futuristic. You know if you were a regular reader, I check two music feeds almost every day - thissongissick.com and nesthq.com. A lot of times they are like my mirror. Do you ever feel that way with your favorite sites? It seems impossible and when it is something way off you think about whose mirror it was that day. Sometimes I see someone else. Sometimes it's easier to be someone else. The biggest plus about being a DJ, mixer or even producer as I was as SKMillion is that you always know what you are doing next. Less as a producer because you can disappear off the map and no one else is there. If you get lost, start following feeds and mixing music, I swear you will find your way. I can't promise that I will be able to average five mixes a month this next year or even two, but I will finish this 2017-2018. If you are just starting off, try one a month like Avicii or something, but don't stop practicing. Be prepared for major changes in your life and try to hold on to anything when the music takes over. I'm not being symbolic, I'm dead serious. I'd like to celebrate and go out like I used to, but keeping the stuff alive I have talked about on the blog has taken everything and everyone away from me. I regret more from before than I ever have, but I don't regret this journey. Thanks to all the musicians, DJs and artists at every level; those I know and those I may never know - because it can never all fall apart. Ckwal

Ninth Day of Christmas

9 Ladies Dancing. Only about six days left until Christmas depending on where you live and only three more days in our countdown. There are a lot of possibilities for this line, but no one is going to send you nine ladies dancing or give them to you (unless it is a strip club party or something). In that case your true love must be a wing-man who has given up on trying to get you in a relationship. Choose Las Vegas or Amsterdam. Skyscanner is a great app and website for searching plane tickets. The reason is because you don't need a destination, only a budget. So, that is what I am sharing for this theme day which was my favorite website and app for looking for plane tickets. Special thanks to another friend of mine from Wales who referred this app to me in 2013 when I was living and teaching in Thailand. In other updates: We have a total of fifty-seven mixes thus far in 2017. This counts UNP (unpublished) Series Mixes and SKM Mixes that were revealed this year as well as re-dos and encores or several parts (So a four part mix would count as four mixes). I plan one more mix closer to Christmas possibly and then of course still hoping to complete the New Year Bridge Mix successfully. Thanks for those who stuck with us all year through this nearly impossible feat; full of sacrifices and hardship.

Vegan update

2017-12-27 00:36:31

My new hobby is contacting food and other products' businesses and trying to get to the bottom of their animal usage. First lesson learned is that there are a lot of websites that say there are animal products in all batteries for instance or these candies are approved for your eating in another example. This is too bad because even when contacting businesses, the person on the other end might not know the answer and if they are kind-hearted enough may do some disappointing research for the both of us. If they are trained to answer like a machine and only care about their job or have no other choice, they may be concealing information or not answering your questions. We are about to go into 2018 and even grade school children can see through a typical lie. So, why is it still going on? Does sugar really have to be filtered through animal remains? Why would you pride yourself on a product and not know how the main ingredient is made. Obviously we arrive at veganism=trust at some point. Possibly I'm too strict, but I've seen habitual benders who end up not following any rule or principle and can't figure out why they can't be saved. This life isn't for me a lot of the time, but I feel like I'm fighting for a 'pay it forward' type battle that as easy as it is to make beautiful and tasty products that 'don't kill', on a budget, major companies like Hershey recently have decided to make me not important enough to answer my question with a definite answer. Glad/Clorox has given me a time-sensitive run-around. So far what could be good news is that Duracell 'cans' as they call them no longer use gelatin. The batteries themselves may not do animal testing, but I'm not sure about all their products because by-law (which I think is a bad law) some products require animal testing. Since they cannot volunteer to do the testing, then it is unfair. There are plenty of starving, poor, jobless or underpaid humans that would rather be tested on. We sign a waiver and our right away for the littlest of things everyday. I'll test a chemical. Why-not? Rats are cuter. Who else? Dynex batteries are OK on some level and the HP monitors in this library do not have animal fat in them. I would email every company before you buy a product in question, especially monitors to make sure you aren't watching 'Burn Notice' through pigs' byproducts. Also, to see if they care about your business (even if you aren't vegan). Best Buy may be a cool store with great workers, that doesn't mean the products' companies are true to that. Other good news so far, is that Bubba's bagels seem to be safe to eat except the honey wheat. Honey is an arguable one for some people. It talks about milk and honey in the bible. Did the bees make it for us? I heard one stat that said when there are no more bees there will be no more life on earth soon or something like that. So just to recap. My biggest sacrifice today is going to be Twizzlers. Nothing confirmed of bone-char, but a response that makes them inedible to me. If there are updates in this new hobby of mine, that raises more questions than answers, I'll post them. Any company out there reading, please don't send a hitman. This is the future of eating and making things. Anyone getting comfortable doing things the same way without adapting to major revolutionary ideas like these being adopted by someone like me, will have huge wake up calls since mine started. The generations younger seem ahead of me even. Jesus knows and so will others. This is the closest thing I have to X-files. We can call them the C-Files for copyright concerns. To stay vegan I made bread and sugar cookies outside in the fresh snow on Christmas. Update 1.3.18 No confirmation of bone-char sugar or source for Twizzler candies. A different representative says Nibs (5oz) and the Pull-N-Peel (Cherry 15.4oz) are Vegan and 'some Twizzler varieties'. Of course they are not at the moment vegan verified, but it is being passed on. There is a costlier sugar-free option. Also, an increasingly important thing to me is the NON GMO project label.

Genetic modifications seems wrong and I'm reading now it is against veganism. Just because you see this NON GMO doesn't mean it's vegan however. Not every food is verified with labels, so many consumers are gambling with their assumptions.

2017-2018 New Year Bridge Mix Update

Date

2018-01-03 00:23:20

I'm still reviewing these candidate mixes C1 C2 C3. The transition I said was questionable wasn't noticeable when I played the first part back. I went back one more time and checked it out and heard what I was talking about, but the main thing was I was so close to the New Year on the west coast before the whole thing started going offshore, that I had to start and decide on the the bridge song without much warning. I am at the ending of Candidate #2 and I really like flow of the whole mix with Calvin Harris' tracks interspersed with S.P.Y. and 'Cold Hearted' at the end. The third mix, I barely noticed at first, omitted Calvin. Reason for the delay: The other day I was roughing it in the cold to try and upload the files so I could review after converting because my iPad cannot reload the mixes after I mix them anymore. My hands were freezing pretty bad, but the iPad screen went sideways, distorted and then the battery sign went on before blanking out. I had plenty of battery, by the way. I thought that was the end of Ckwal for awhile. Luckily the iPad is okay it was just too cold. Overall I'm thinking all three mixes are of publishable quality and there is no way I can decide, especially after what I said about going there... Even with mostly the same tunes, though, they are pretty different. If you have a vote, send it over the traditional way by email to social@ckwal.net. Alternatively try to ethersphere me. Artist quicklinks below. # Ckwal New Year Candidate #1

Date 2017-12-31 20:18:46

Right now I have only one mix, but it's still 2017 in the US. I tried to do another one a couple hours after, but it wasn't happening. A typical process (for when there are several 'tough to choose' from mixes) with notes made during mix. Post mix notes added between double dashes. Candidate #1 UTC +8 Woke up early and checked the times for the New Year around the world after some breakfast and walking in the cold. Found out it was approaching 2018 in China and did this mix starting at 9:17 am or 11:17pm . I really felt the ball drop and the people celebrating. Meanwhile it's early in the grocery store... I've attempted to make it to China several times and have had an offer and some interviews, but it never really panned out for timing or other reason. Once I went to the Chinese consulate and a woman became possessed in Chicago. She was nice before lunch and soon after completing the requirements I was denied a visa and had to forfeit a non refundable plane ticket. Anyways, this mix really gave me a buzz watching all the times and trying to line it up while blending everything. Will Smith's song started at exactly 12:00. Ironically Chinese New Year isn't even celebrated traditionally in the same month, but as far as all the countries on this timeline and the standard years go, it's 2018. If my spirit of the mix wasn't actually traded to make this, maybe I'll end up there as I was jokingly talking about in an earlier post, but China isn't as easy to get into as people once thought (at least legally for a teacher). Happy New Year you everyone in these zones (I love you Taiwan) and I expect to make it over there somewhere at some point in the future to do some living or visiting someplace other than Hong Kong! -positives: timing is unbeatable and placement of every song is really ideal for theme and transitional vibes -negatives: 13-15 (14min:10sec-14:23-25) seconds of transition after Cold Hearted is a little dissonant (in tempo and didn't notice on first review without notes) -could go either way: dark and generous warm-up period Sunday 31st December 2017 10:13am (Central Time USA) Monday 1st January 2018 12:13am (China- Beijing, Shanghai, Macau, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Singapore, Philippines, Malaysia, Indonesia-Bali, Mongolia, Brunei Darussalam, Russia-Irkutsk , Bratsk, Ulan-Ude ; Australia- Perth, more ... 2018-01-01 14:49:05

Candidate #2 UTC Mixed this in a different grocery store later in the day as many customers were buying party supplies or hanging out, grabbing a quick snack and planning. Like some mixes I am really out of body on this one with the scene and didn't review it for a listener perspective. I will update in a separate post on Tuesday night. Sunday 31st December 2017, 18:50 (CST US) Monday 1st January 2018, 12:50am (UK, Portugal, Ireland, Iceland, Canary Isl., Morocco, Cote d'Ivoire, Sierra Leone, Saint Helena, Western Sahara, Sao Tome and Principe, Senegal, Guinea, Guinea-Bissau, Gambia, Ghana, Liberia, Mali, Mauritania, more ... reference link 1, 2) 59:40 5:50pm (central time) 11:50pm (UTC) Witness - Jordan Feliz Tempo down, filter out lows and delay 5:54 Keep On Searching - S.P.Y. down to 58.9 with verb and filter 5:59 // 11:59pm, 2017 Will 2K - Will Smith Tempo up, tweak EQ (mids up more, lows up, then highs slighty) Time - Swanky no sync start early (25s left), gater with 6s, same tempo 6:07 // 12:07am, 2018 Crazy Maybe (feat. Travis Scott & A-Trak) - Calvin Harris sync start with 24s left and keep tempo same at 86bpm Cold Wave - S.P.Y. *Note: On the transition to Shadow Play. Some sites like Beatport show the tempo at 175. In Traktor it registers at 87.5. I am bringing it down to the closest half of that.

Ckwal New Year Candidate #3

Date 2018-01-01 15:01:45

Candidate #3 UTC -8 After a long day of crowds, mixing, shopping for snacks and eating, I crashed and woke up in time to make this final year bridge mix. I was sleeping during the New Year in my time zone at the center in Nebraska. -Positives: starts locking in after J.Lauryn's voice messages, super high energy -Negatives: sleepy startup with questionable transition to second track -Could go either way: shorter mix time (will update after further review) Monday 1st January 2018, 2:10am (CST) Monday 1st January 2018, 12:10am (USA- Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego, Seattle, San Jose, Las Vegas, Portland-OR; Canada- Vancouver, Whitehorse; Mexico- Tijuana, Mexicali; U.K. - Pitcairn)((see reference sources on previous post)) 43:51 CST 1:26am // West Coast 11:26pm The King of Wishful Thinking - Go West sync tempo up (starts at 113.x, raise tempo slowly throughout first 1 and a half minute) 1:30 Will 2K - Will Smith tempo up to 1:34 Always Come Back 2 U - J. Lauryn tempo down to 1:39 Witness - Jordan Feliz filter up with delay, fader center, tempo down 1:43 Cold Hearted - Seven Lions & Kill the Noise quick HP filter at the end, tempo down to 64 (1/2 of next bpm) 1:47 Game Changer - Max Vangeli no sync with :19s left tempo up Time (Tiësto Big Room Mix) - Z.Tao sync :19s left fader center, keep tempo at 130bpm 1:55 Crazy Maybe (feat. ## Year Bridge Mix Update #2

2018-01-03 16:42:35

Additional Candidate Notes: Sometimes I listen for disqualifiers or things I can't live with hearing. Examples: bad transitions, major imperfections or skips/mistakes, overall theme feeling is imbalanced or leaves you wrongly. C3 - First transition is off beat although it sounds fine with a decent fade. Also, the overall beginning feel is too reflective or review-like. This is what a year mix does instead of a bridge mix. Transition from Time to Magneto is muddy. Normally I would disqualify it with one off-transition, so the first two notes here would have been fine because there are some transitions that are unbeatable. If this were a regular series mix it would barely go to the UNP (unpublishable) series because there are no mistakes if you want to call it that. Early decision for the day: Although I really like this 'short but sweet', year-mix type feel, gradually crescendoing to an exciting new year possibility and ending with a dark jungle feel; Candidate #3 is, as Trump would say, "Fired". More updates are possible later in the day or by Friday. Update on the post about veganism and Twizzler products.

2017-2018 New Year Bridge Mix

Date

2018-01-05 00:05:54

The third annual New Year Bridge Mix decision. I usually mix one and there is nothing to review. I don't remember practicing before the other ones. I actually did one practice mix without recording before the 31st and it was nearly perfect. One exception was, I think, the same song transition that was muddy in #3. The funny thing about that is in Traktor the application recommends tracks in order of what the computer thinks is a good match based on key, tempo and other programmed things. I take this with a grain of salt and usually know the tunes well enough to ignore this or think the machine and I are thinking alike. This recommendation was at the top of the list and it was dead wrong. I didn't write down my notes however and since a lot of the tracks have similar start letters and other ways I would remember that combination by, I forgot. The point of this story is that two awesome mixes are out because of what I would call 'machine-error' or lack of preparation which doesn't apply in this case. I would say don't ever think machines are going to replace all of us. DJs, drivers, cashiers, tellers, etc. We get into the habit of using them for convenience, comfort factor or other reason. Possibly 2018 is the come back for the human. We are trained by the machine often, but more often someone wrote that programming or has to fix it somehow. I listened to Candidate #2 a lot and it's really unique. Some of the overlaps and bridge emotions make it my ideal winner. Possibly I want to justify the other mixes existence by not choosing #1. This used to happen in my classes too when I taught English overseas. Some kids are just too good and even if you and their parents helped make them so smart, you think it is unfair and want another student to win sometimes. Well I can't deny the winner is Candidate #1 (UTC+8 Bridge). The biggest reasons are how it already took off on it's own, mix experience vs. listener experience, song setup/placement and of course transitions. Happy New Year 2018. Instagram quicklinks from this mix.

Intro to 2018

Date

2018-01-07 20:05:48

About the MixList maker: Some time ago I changed my artist name from SKMillion to Ckwal. I was no longer the same person. I quit being who I was before. With Ckwal I change everyday and drastically with every mix at times. Now I feel like myself and myself as Ckwal need a forced break to find out what's next. Soon skmillion.com will no longer exist as I am letting go of the domain. I was updating promodj.com/ckwal, but their customer service is too slow and apparently there was spam in the blog. There was a comment every now and then, but nothing I noticed recently, so I question what is really going on over there. As far as my person or self as a human, if you know me in real-life, I have no other social networks. I had self-produced videos online as SKMillion on a couple of sites and photos on several sites, but they no longer exist. If there are other representations of me or previous artists, social profiles or public work profiles, they are not authentic (as of January 7th, 2018). I have or had one other mixer profile which is not being used. Previously (and still recently) if you searched for Ckwal you may have found only middle-eastern results. They are also not me. On spiritual concerns/soul: The spirit God gives us, which changes, comes from God. Evil spirits and lost spirits move through sometimes. One of these formerly mentioned, is part of what is being saved in a mix (other than mind-state or memories and physical state or curability). Some of those are a part of me in the ways they can be, before being changed, taken away or leaving your body, forever. The church knows something about this, but no one can know everything for sure. God gave us a bible written by humans under the direction of what I believe are such spirits. It may guide us or tell us indirectly through the Holy Spirit, but mostly it is not a 'how-to' book. The New Testament was written by mostly followers of the real Jesus. He lives with us and saves us from destruction from the worst of these evil spirits, either of which could inspire a mix or be put into a mix, but they are not us. I believe as an experienced multitude of spirits he can make something good out of almost any situation or being. I even believe God works with all the religions of the world to create a diversity of culture with similar threads of belief that connect us to each other. If you are struggling with past mistakes or troubles that cannot be pinned down, I recommend seeking forgiveness from those involved and yourself by asking God/Jesus. What I do recently is to also research other religions and use their best methods to reach forgiveness or enlightenment with those who don't believe in Christian ways. Ideas like Karma are shared in rules of most every belief. Sometimes I feel like I am being guided to harness this energy and use it in a positive way; some call it an outlet. Sometimes I feel like everything of this nature is misunderstood, misrepresented and if we are headed for another world war, it is the worst kind (Spiritual War or Holy War). The reason is because a weak mind or body (someone we could also trust and know as a friend or strong person) might be used as a weapon against us or each other. This can happen with or without drugs, alcohol, food additives, hormones or other substances that modify our being. Before I called my faith simply that: Faith. I was not allowed to only say that following my trip to Iraq and Thailand of 2013... On the future of Ckwal and summary: I am not sure what is going to happen in 2018 and I cannot guarantee I will be able to take an extended break from this 'purpose', but I am pondering that my calling is changing somewhat. I cannot afford or am simply not willing to make the sacrifices for me and others to continue weekly mixes with the donations and resources that got me through 2017. So, I must find a way to support those myself in addition to food and necessities, if they will continue as such. I had an awesome time escaping which is sometimes a bleak reality for a homeless person, but I would really like to see better results for me and others working this hard in life. I know we all have to pay our dues in the struggle to prove to ourselves how far we have come individually and in our society or environment. I will try to update as often as possible with my interests or development in this undetermined interim which may be only a few weeks up to a couple of months. Of course you can email with requests to review old mixes on a private, friendship basis or with contributions for specific entertainment related projects. I cannot claim full responsibility for our successes or failures as connected as are or seem to be in a spiritual war or in the battle of life. I have tried to communicate the best I can, explain what my experiences are, reasons for certain choices and rectify the worst of what has happened in the last two years to me that could happen to anyone. I don't underestimate the importance and impact of mixing music of various styles, new and old, and look forward to great music in the future. I did my first talent show in the first grade singing David Lee Roth's 'Just like Paradise', wrote my first original song around late grade school, recorded my first album just after high school graduation and received my Degree in songwriting at Berklee College of Music. I have several self-produced albums, EPs and singles, quite a few remixes and now two years of mixes and other tips that I think will hold this bridge back and forth between musical worlds together for a long time. I haven't thanked nearly enough musicians and bands that have kept me going because that would be almost impossible. So what I am saying is, music will always be a part of my life. Final note: The Vegan battle possibly makes what I am going through that much more challenging and to show my commitment to these ideas and people that make an impact on me, no matter how little time I spend or have spent with them, I got my first tattoo at Bread N' Butter by Tattoo Artist Church Hill shortly after I posted the mix ending with Coldplay's live version of 'Ink'. It was designed with a font from Chequered Ink found on dafont.com. Ask a shop if they have vegan inks like World Famous. Update 3/22/19 : Another ink stated on their website as vegan is Eternal. Aftercare products: Saniderm -  or SecondSkin - . About aftercare: 1 2 *Update 7.9.18 - After using Saniderm twice, it is a good product especially for bigger tattoos away from the hands. However email customer service is a little slow; haven't tried to call them yet. Also, see this post for similar updates.

Fuel III

A few new hints or tricks I learned trying to cook in the winter. One is about those detachable propane tanks for portable grills. If they get too cold, they may stop flowing properly and your flame may not be healthy enough to cook bread properly or whatever you are trying to make before your hands freeze. If you have two of them you may be able to swap one out and warm it back up in your coat or whatever part of you is warm and cook until the same thing happens again and repeat. This is also the same for spray bottles of coconut oil. It is more finicky that the propane and you must spray what you need and return it to somewhere warm (under your arm or in an insulated pocket). I will update this post if I have to try it out in colder temperatures than 15-20 degrees, so with some hand warmers and quick, smart cooking, you can still make that 'down-to-the-penny-save-my-veganism-meal' (if it ever comes to that to save a cow, your life or whatever it may be). More advanced but costly tanks and grills are better prepared for the winter temps, but this is the budget Coleman stovetop with budget gas from Walmart or Target which makes it a lot easier than trying to balance your pan on a skinny Tower of Pisa.

Looking for a pet?

2018-01-19 13:58:54

One other note for today. If you are passing through Kearney, Nebraska, there are two pets overdue for a good home I can vouch for personally. Bear is a bit intimidating as he is a big dog and needs space, but loves walks and trying to socialize. Also, he is as sweet or sweeter than a little pup. If you need a cat, Daisy is an intuitive and protective one. She likes towers and hanging out in high places. If you are creative with games you might be able to capture her attention, otherwise she can hang out all day and is great company. Ask the staff for more info or other recommendations depending on your lifestyle. They are at Kearney Animal Shelter west of the UNK campus and Buckle factory on the north side of the main road across (NW/kitty-corner) from Cenex.

Strict Vegan Survival Update

Date

2018-01-11 22:09:21

I went on an email spur one day because I couldn't listen to music for some reason and wanted to find some strict vegan and non-gmo foods/snacks. I was getting back a lot of bad news and started searching on how to make my own licorice. Well today I think I have received some acceptable information and have added some new foods to my list of 'probably fit all my requirements' to eat. In addition to most On The Border Chips (Organic blue & yellow) and Salsas (which say they are vegan and /or Non-gmo on the website), at the time of this post, but the package is not recyclable) and what I usually use are: the King Arthur flours. **Another disappointing thing is that most chip bags are not recyclable. If it says TerraCycle, do this research and start a collection. Robin Hood Flour Hudson Cream Flour Still waiting on a canned bean I can approve Ro*Tel Original Diced Tomatoes & Green Chilies or Hunt's Diced and Petite Diced Tomatoes Update- Conagras brands and Campbells other brands include meat products so I wouldn't continue eating/drinking them. **Many of these V8 fruit and vegetable blends are Non-GMO (says on new label) and vegan (although not vegan verified) and after getting a response it seems as though they are strict with production. I stopped consuming them while waiting for a response and I will probably drink these again after another response because I am reading this, "Citric acid occurs naturally in many fruits and vegetables such as oranges, lemons, limes, and tomatoes. We add it for tartness and to control the acidity of our products to ensure product safety. The citric acid we use is derived from either sugar or corn crops that may be grown from genetically modified seeds." So if you need one of these juices and see citric acid (like in Strawberry Banana Fusion), I wouldn't buy it until further updates. Dave's Killer Bagels (Cinnamon Raisin Remix, Plain Awesome & Epic Everything) - Non-GMO, Facility only shares with soy & labeled 'no animal products'. There are more on the way and when I finish my research and communications, I'll post updates. This is subject to change and if you find any different info out please email asap. As you may know, these two are important survival foods for when you have little funds left and need to last another day or two before payday. With a portable stove, some Morena sugar (or Florida Crystals) and salt or salt substitute, you can make bread and cookies. My most adaptable recipe for bread is 2:1 ration of flour and water and for sugar cookies 5:4:1 (sugar, flour, water or water/coconut oil mixture). Eat the cold refried beans out of the can for a filling, healthy snack. I have even tried using the can to fire stuff up in, but it is a little dangerous because the flame is typically bigger than the can, so make sure you have some metal tongs and gloves that are flame resistant. Why are GMOs bad? I have read that all GMOs regardless of whether they come from plants or animals require animal testing, but this has yet to be confirmed. My strict veganism avoids products made on shared equipment and many times facilities if it is listed because that means they aren't aware of the changes. With spiritual concerns like in the previous post, one thing we are avoiding are these bad moods or karma or fear/murder getting into the food and contaminating our generations with mental illnesses or phenomenon now fed by drugs to alter genetics or our brains, when the origin may be unknown. Just like hormones from animal products, genetic modification may alter your being. So it is a wildcard in food products, just like animal products and byproducts. Even if it was for a super-human strength, how would scientists know if it was safe when the end result may not be until two generations down the line and we have no way of tracing the source of these positive traits? A lot of this may be philosophical, but something I would rather avoid. So this for example, took Skittles out of my diet for some time now and why I became a vegan in the first place. I was going to GNC which has so many ground-breaking technologies and cutting-edge modifications for your body. I was noticing changes however that were undesirable in my equilibrium and decided to do a detox. This led me to veganism and Christianity and now Non-GMO concerns as well as the other labels you may have noticed connected with beliefs too, like Pareve and Kosher. Have you ever wondered about the reasons for Halal? New and updated 'Avoid List' Quaker Cereals - also rejects responses for further communication after speling. Twizzlers - seemed like I was getting honest responses from one representative and then a new responder changed the tone and information. Pop Chips - uses bone char in sugars. Note: Bone char usage to filter sugar is something that if the company doesn't know the source, cannot guarantee that it is vegetarian or vegan. Possibly some vegetarians or vegans don't care about this, but it is disgusting. Especially thinking you would give a child candy or cereal with the main ingredient using cow's bones. Also McDonald's fries as we talked about before uses beef products. To me this is concealing information. Sure some laws might say certain things are okay, but week one or two in my vegan attempt I was drinking Coke and eating fries thinking it was okay. I didn't know most caramel color is made with animal products and some sodas like life water are using insect extract. I've had to sacrifice quite a bit to rid my life of so many products that are wrong by principle. I shouldn't have to work this hard to rid myself of being covered in animal fat or carrying some animal product around with me or not knowing a harmless animal suffered to make sure it was safe to use. Even if you don't care about killing animals, it is deception. It is greedy, nasty, gross and wrong. If the only reason is cheapness, answer the question, "What would happen to the product if that part of it was removed?" When you go to a foreign country you see pictures of black lungs and horrible diseases on the cigarettes and it says in giant lettering, without a doubt SMOKING CAUSES CANCER. Now we have companies using models on music to advertise. Are we that desperate for space on the planet to support the hurt that causes suicide and to kill each other and innocent creatures? Look for beet, unrefined, raw, turbinado (pure-cane) or USDA Organic.

Blizzards and blood

Date

2018-01-21 20:13:01

These radar-like predictive tracker video-like images (from Cnn.com) are probably the best I can find at the moment with criteria for 'the best' being visuals and usefulness. We are expecting a blizzard in an hour or so and debating whether I should buy some food in case I cannot go outside. I guess it's good I am taking an extended break from making mixes as I may have otherwise suffered this month more than possible. Also, donating another double unit of blood, so if anyone else is joining me this month, have some Dark Chocolate Silk Almond Milk *** (Update Pareve dairy symbol - shared machinery) and Arran's vegan granola or Kashi vegan cereals (not sure if all these are strict, so check first). They are really good for this purpose. If it's the first time on double, it shouldn't be that bad, but do this afterwards for awhile because most iron supplements have some animal product in them. I don't know about the second time, but I don't think I paid enough attention to it until recently. Also, saw my first video in awhile to celebrate the break. War for the Planet of the Apes. It is appropriate for this site as the radio suggested it in the top videos of last year and goes with veganism in an animal take-over sort of way. Also, it's a sequel. Cheers

Vegan foods update

Date

2018-01-27 11:28:46

I was going to update an earlier post with this information, but an idea that keeps re-themeing itself to me is this: Many of the products we consume on our journey to live free of animal products and cravings as well as using animals for the testing of them, end up leaving us feeling like we were never vegan. I call myself strict, especially with my addition of a non-gmo requirement, and many times want to quit because after a year and five months I may have crutched on certain products that were hardly vegan. Oreos were one, several months ago, when I was living in Denver. I had heard they were secretly vegan, but recently read on their site they are not suitable. What a shame! Anyways, don't give up, you still are saving lives and helping to change the world. About 6% of Americans identify as vegans which has grown from 1 or 2% in only a few years. One day we will miss the struggle. The good news is there are a lot of vegan products that are verified and though not always cheap, a lot of your supermarkets are carrying them to lower the price from your typical specialty store. Try ***Amy's Organic Chili (regular and black bean), Lotus' Biscoff (actually not labelled 'airline cookies' cause those ones have milk in them), Tofurkey's 'sausage-like' creation in 4 packs (which are good and filling right out of the package) and . Check the package for the vegan 'go-ahead' first. This is possibly the lazy way to shop, but I'm trying some as an excuse for those out there who want more options and don't want to turn over every package***^. The last note is, most companies (probably by requirement) should be labeling their products if they are produced next to or on the same line as another for allergy and religious reasons, so one you are going to eat something as a staple, don't take the fine print for granted. Until I have my own kitchen, I'll be eating out of the package and pan in the trees! Has anyone mixed the last post? ***Update 7.3.18 Not strict vegan with processing. ***^Update 7.13.18 Vegan Action (V symbol with heart) is not very strict with shared machinery and also does not require documentation on cleaning products used (i.e. cruelty free status or plant based). No additional information was given on this topic. See vegan.org for their most recent policies and FAQ. P.S. Happy Birthday Stacy!

Update Jan. '18

Date

2018-01-28 14:59:34

This year I'll be sharing a maximum of 9 'Mix in the Making' type lists. I'm not suddenly going to become a silver surfer, but I'm going to be spending the music funds, if there are any, on shows I valued from TV or movies watched overseas from street DVDs or other ways of getting unavailable english programming. Legal and moral details are not always known, but I only started contributing what I could in the last year or so directly. Until recently I was spending too much on new music and getting ahead of myself. What I'll do to share on this site is undetermined, but will most likely be the usual: other entertainment and food; possibly philosophy or news. Each list of music will be unrestricted by style and published once a month until October. Ckwal

Ckwal's journey may be continuing again on a new chapter, but still within the country. If you would like to support this site and associated life during this time I will now be accepting donations. I also recently donated (a double unit of blood) as soon as I was eligible through the Red Cross and it went pretty well. Using the advice on this site should make your second Power Red donation go easier and you won't have to miss work. This month was pretty difficult and knowing I had this appointment to contribute some strict vegan blood to possibly save or change someone's life, got me through some tough spiritual battles and life choices. It was my sixth unit in less than a year (last year being my first donation). So this time I am the one thanking Red Cross. I'll see you again, Red Cross, sometime in late May or June (if I have to move). The reason I am sharing these stories together is that you never really know how it affects someone to give or to receive. It may be a positive experience or it might be really difficult for many parties involved depending on the organization. So, for this reason I pray our gifts of time, money or ourselves will be received well if accepted and that we may be able to accept help, if offered, when we really need it. Either way I'll find more ways to share important things on this blog. Thanks to last year's contributions which ranged from shelter assistance to food, propane, an extra layer for the winter and fresh tracks that made it to our MixLists. Official Donations Ranking List Christine M. Deborah D. Jeff L. Liz V. Other personal unofficial support from Russell D., Jeff L., Fred L., Barbara L., Lois D., Nathan W. & Jay P. Sincerely, Ckwal

Mix in the Making #3

Date

2018-02-14 15:32:43

Intro note: Since this turning point begins around Ash Wednesday (2017) which falls on Valentine's Day (2018), I decided to post March's notes today. -----
This month I'll tell a short story that brings us full circle to where I was this time last year. I left my parent's home which was my home from the age of 6 after packing a car full of my remaining belongings and went to attend CRST's refresher course and training in Waterloo, IA. The course was supposed to be a review, but it is never that easy to pass these tests they setup. I ran over the course with my car going through the gear changes in my head and pulling off the side of the road to take notes. I reviewed each night and in my spare time sold, traded and donated a lot of stuff to afford food and gas and what-not to stay up with my bills from trucking school and associated road trip from the previous year. I had finished my licence right before I became homeless, stayed in the mission in Chicago after being kicked out without a place to stay and meanwhile was still keeping current with all these costs from living on the road to New Orleans and back to trucking school staying in hotels the whole time. I finally passed after the test was delayed due to black ice and tensions were high in the classroom as we finished our hours of review the following nights. Several scenes went down in the classroom staying late that questioned my path and I prayed quite a bit. One argument was when I found out about closing paperwork which would bring us back to Cedar Rapids, but had already planned to attend church on Ash Wednesday. The priest put a cross of ash on my forehead and I contemplated doing lent for the first time in my life. Another important thing I did during these final days of commitment was religiously listening to 'Views' by Drake. I was going to sell plasma to get this album, but they wouldn't let me due to 'no permanent address'. The morning Hawkeye asked me to come back for some paperwork, I had returned from the church service at Sacred Heart and I remember a turning point which I recognized as a calling. I packed the car and headed toward Denver with only enough money for gas to reach the city and stay in a mission. I went an unintended route however and was driving up through Northern Nebraska. I remember fueling up, calculating in my head and a spirit of fear passed within me as if I could turn back now if I had any doubts and recontinue at the milestone I earned, but going forward was like unknown territory or nearly starting over. I kept going West and only started to get worried when I realized I was way up in no man's land and not on the mapped out course. This part of Nebraska is like wastelands. Apparently Bill Gates has a home somewhere out there, but there aren't any gas stations nor much civilization. Not only this but I had passed over several bridges where the wind was tossing my car unnaturally. The steering wheel seemed to rip right out of my hands with shaking as the tires went over the gridded surface. Well that was the problem, but I was thinking, '...please let me make it to the next gas station before I run out of gas'. I was back on track headed south to I-80 and getting close to a gas station and could see I was going to make it there and probably would still get to Denver with my remaining credit. I was about at the end of the street, only a short walk from the gas station, when the car turned to the side of the road and broke down. The front cradle rusted through, deformed and the tire had turned into the sidewall making it unmovable and unfixable (without over 1000$ plus extra time to get parts). The police arranged for a short tow to the gas station parking lot where I slept waiting for AAA to show up to tow me down to North Platte where my journey would continue. I did fast for over thirty days mostly until 2:30 pm or later combined with housekeeping to pay for the hotel provided by CRST and course at Hawkeye. After living there for some time, (some of these posts tell about my experiences there) I did make it to Denver, but went back to North Platte when asked to leave Good Samaritan because I could survive cheaper and stay vegan. Occasionally I question my calling or think I misunderstood. I really identify with 'Greatest Love Story' because for some time I thought that was the reason. Thinking, "I am supposed to meet someone in one these places". Since my faith is strong I wonder if I skipped a step or my life was saved. I could have crashed in broad daylight or been tossed off of any number of bridges. It was only a matter of timing when this car would fail because it was overlooked when it was in the shop last. If I bypassed my whole trucking career, then I was speeding past my fate and mixing to the future which could now never happen. Another theory is I was helping to clear the path for another couple's or individual's future by succeeding and failing in possible scenarios as making up for interruptions in others' lives I may have made in my past. This brings me to March's Mix in the Making, #3. The unrequited love is part of it as the one year anniversary of my arrival to Nebraska (mostly with 3 country songs I have identified in my soul searching) as well as the possible missing links to this or another story from my private/confidential notes. PØP CULTUR - Tell Me Baby Julian Calor - Charge Me Up DJ Snake ft. Lauv - A Different Way (Curbi Remix) &/or Martin Garrix & David Guetta - So Far Away (feat. # What is going on?

I guess this could be a really serious question if you lived in a world without power or suddenly certain devices stopped working for no apparent reason. This is not far off from what could happen and yes we take these things for granted. I'd like to think I have an advantage as I moved most of my life offline these past years, but I haven't seen too many of my peers able to do it, attempt or want to try that. Anyways, that is just an icebreaker. I'm working on the next Mix in the Making #3. It has a story attached to it as well which I'm editing. With more time to put these lists together and general theme inspiration for the could-be 'MixList Maker', this could be the site transition to an educational point of view. Will I be relocating to Bangkok to live up in the skyscraper teaching jockeys to spin vinyl off their pointers like a Harlem Globetrotter? It has been fairly easy so far to prioritize searching for music and getting nutrition than buying the music and making the weekly mix than I thought.

Animal Shelter Recommendations & Update

Date

2018-03-03 12:05:22

I forgot to mention these two cats... Roman is a hunk of a character. He prowled the room when we first hung out with an impressive stride. Later Roman turned on the charm with puppy dog eyes. Just yesterday he was tapping the glass like a lion. You could probably take Roman for a walk, so hurry to the Kearney Animal Shelter to audition. Next is Curry who has been there awhile (must have snuck under the radar). Like Cajun who was almost nabbed, Curry is well behaved and under-rated in the appearance category. It's been awhile since I had a chat with Curry, but these three were still there yesterday. Seems like with the weather getting nicer there are more companions in and out of the shelter, so see if you can get a hold on one if you are serious. Also if you want to contribute to Kearney Area Animal Shelter and don't want to commit to a furry friend, they accept donations in all sorts of variations. On a side note: I'll probably post a short 'Mix in the Making' list in a week, so hypothetically a mixer could have the final mix ready for April Fool's Day. I'm delving into hobbies right now and struggling a little without my daily mix practice because after all, I was doing that for over two years! However I feel better to focus on a handful of songs (plus radio play catch-up) and the people in my life for awhile. Today I was thinking about putting an official MixList out for early summer, but still deciding how to deliver you the most concentrated content that you can value.

Sometimes this site turns into a journal of new discoveries and other posts are like pieces of an autobiography or the thanks to those that made it into my life in some significant way. As some may remember and are thinking I'll get back to one day, I was really into digital photography and also videography. I made some of my own hobby music videos and did a lot of photo editing. Adobe Premiere and Photoshop were always my favorite for editing. Ever since I took a class during one of my semesters at Columbia College Chicago, between transfers, I was developing skills in Photoshop. These videos were mostly trial, but if I ever do them again, I'll know what software to use. Now they have the Creative Cloud, where you pretty much lease the software. This would have been cool when I lived in other countries, but now I'll just say I endorse the software if you are debating which one to use. Anyways, before I forget... The webseries at Digital Rev, although it was a little dirty on the sense of humor at time, was very educational and entertaining. It also reviewed and compared products available in their store with various celebrity guests. Mostly shot in Hong Kong the main hosts Kai and assistant Lok, never ran out of conversation, edgy humor, and international image and video-based culture. Side note: I haven't watched these in awhile, so I know nothing of the current content. Parental advisory. Update 3/19/19 : Kai's YouTube Channel - Lok's YouTube Channel -

Encore choices for Mix in the Making #3

2018-02-21 00:35:47

The first nineish are from my latest picks. I am on a Country kick and listen to some Christian music too. As you know I am always trying to find the long lasting Pop songs and Dance Pop. The other sections are most of the rest of my picks from 2017 that I tried to compile from my notes and lists in one place for this encore. What I usually do is pick enough for an hour and half and then mix an hour. If I don't use some they may roll over to the next mix if they still fit in, but if you are doing it on an iPad or phone, I don't recommend putting a ton of songs on there. Just pick ones that your are feeling that week and try to get the best transitions and order (even if they do fight a little bit). If you get sick of a track too quick, possibly take it out of the candidates and bring it back when it is ready or you are. This is enough tracks to do like four mixes, but I am trying to catch up to the newer stuff without forgetting these ones. So this is perfect if you want to do a mix per week. Another tip is to try and not choose too many songs that have lyrics for one mix unless that is your theme and can mesh them into a story. Space out really wordy songs with a house track or something so the listener can think about what you said and how it relates to their problems because a lot of us are trying to solve issues while others are out of them.

I'm going to post another 'Mix in the Making' list for you to make the encore by the beginning of March to follow the early release of 'Mix in the Making #3'. Until then I will post as usual a mix of the week from notes that I didn't reveal yet. These are mixes I am currently going over and over or are of the very few, full mixes I listened to in 2017. I used one track from this mix on 'Ckwal Mix 2017020' and the lead-in is on 'Mix in the Making #3'. The Magician's Magic Tape 73 is the mix of this week.

Newest pet recommendations

Date

2018-02-23 02:36:25

I've been hanging out with the cats at the Kearney Area Animal Shelter in Nebraska for a few days. My last post I made some unofficial recommendations. Those in charge there are strict with adopters and the animals are picky too, so I wouldn't march in there thinking it's a sure thing... Of the cats I like now I would say 'Cajun' who is really playful and handsome. Also, 'Jordan' is really chill. On the contrast to 'Cajun', he is reluctant to interact in the outgoing way, but in an unpredictable way in which you may be surprised with his company. All the adoptable dogs there are good. The ones other than Bear are a little noisy, but I think it's just a welcoming thing that might not keep going at their new home and it grows on you. Good luck if you are in the area.

Non-GMO Update (revised 3.11.18 with a new vegan definition)

Date

2018-03-04 20:21:52

I have known this for a little while, but was reminded today. If you are adding NON-GMO to your vegan diet as I am attempting, you can avoid looking for the flower and butterfly symbol all the time. Now you can add the Kosher/Pareve symbols. Let's not get confused because these symbols don't make them certified vegan. If you are not super strict with production, they provide a better chance the product is acceptable depending on the contents. Also if the food or ingredient is vegan certified, it should be NON-GMO too because many GMOs come from animals, but more realistically it is just a better probability. GMOs come from the lab which could have originated from viruses, bacteria, insects, animals or humans, however they could be from chemicals. Two reference articles on this (1,2). Another interesting article about the new Kosher law. That law is good news for some of us, but it might make one less strict on their veganism search and circumstantially contacting companies for strictness control. Upon my research from earlier posts (which was a hobby at first that turned into a burdensome volunteer job), some companies seem to be only concerned about whether they are safe or not. This is understandable. My concern was whether companies are concealing this information or just don't know (or won't tell their employees who have to answer the questions for customers). Also, don't forget about buying NON-GMO spices and even raw foods like fruits and vegetables. Remember 'USDA Organic' means that they have not been genetically modified as well. Current GMO Crops and when they were introduced. Update 3/11/18: I cannot confirm if any gmos are not tested on animals. Does any vegan verified food allow animal testing at any level? How about any company thinking they are vegan in which hasn't been verified? I just read about vitro tests which are improving that don't require animals. One last big concern is the dyes in our clothing. I found out last month that one dye maker doesn't test on animals or support it, but their supplier for one of the contents does and it is required (by UK law). I think all GMOs are requiring these tests as well. Some GMO companies claim they are humane tests, but I still don't see how they are getting permission. A real vegan product is packaged without and is without animal products or testing. As of now I cannot bother you with non-vegan spiritual concerns. I.E. Made or served by a non-vegan human or vegan of lower evolutionary status/development.

Ratings & Critics

2018-02-20 12:13:48

I guess because the world didn't think I was talented enough to sell albums, perform or make a living with my own songs I became a critic in the form of a DJ at times because '...but your taste is impeccable'. So at times I must be too easy on some stars (or too tough on others). My fault. I over-rated Khalid too early. I hear him on too many songs now. Possibly it's his management or he doesn't get to choose the songs he is on because many of them are so generic it makes me embarrassed. Lesson learned. How about most under-rated Presidents. Trump gets a lot of shame and I don't even read the paper. When I was young I dreamed of an African-American President and a Woman President, but when I watched 'The Apprentice' on tv, none of us could have thought Donald would be shaping our future. I believe if we choose together someone to lead us, we should support them. So Khalid still has my support and even though to me the last election was a win-win situation for my dream America, seems like the majority of citizens think you have to tear winners and losers down alike and take back their support before the real difference happens. If abuse and harsh words are how we support those we want to do great things, what will they say when we are no longer proud of how we got there?

These are a unique blend of instagram pictures. I have only read one of these while I was in Russia. I attempted to read 'The Idiot' on a student's recommendation, but couldn't get through the beginning. ----- Also, an update on donations. It may be a little misleading on the link to the right bar about donations. My relationship with the red cross is growing in depth as it is a serious contribution and it isn't always clear what I am doing on this site in borderline professional and personal ways. Here is a clearer direction from 'The Little Black Book' which I found at St. James Church. It is available from www.littlebooks.org. From March 18, 2018 (Fifth Sunday of Lent) it says in short: Almsgiving all year long Four levels of action for helping the poor: -Helping people who are part of my own life -Helping people who are not directly connected to my own life -Thinking about the causes of poverty -By addressing the causes of poverty, the systems and structures in society which impoverish people.*

Recently I just passed the 18 month anniversary on the journey towards being a Vegan. Yea, with my new definition it's tough to believe anyone has achieved such a goal. To celebrate I have continued my diversion into the art of forever altering one's appearance. Skin art number two, is a series of five symbols in Chinese possibly originating from an artist signed 'js'. The phrase called out to me on the internet along with this track by Julian Calor on Musical Freedom. The symbols translate as said on the site as, "chinese symbol for vegan". There are several definitions and ways to add meaning to this; I will try to explain that later in person if we get the chance.

The most recent milestone is one of never turning back. It used to not bother me when seeing or smelling all the options of food I used to eat, but now it hurts differently. In my journey which is now at trying to be cruelty-free in everything, I found Rit Dyes is a good option for making clothes from the basic beginning. I will update when I find out more options (asking companies by email), but I knew this for a little while that almost everything on me or us may or may not have been tested on animals (at least if it was dyed) even if it was animal product free, so I knew I was behind my thinking process. If there are any new readers out there, you can catch up with the important info at this compilation page. It is also a quick link on the right sidebar. Again if you can't go on with this information and need a place to start, by all means dive right in the deep end. I started at what I thought was vegan which is further along than vegetarian because I knew it would be too easy to fall back. This tattoo by Church Hill translates in layman's terms on google as 'absolutely vegetarian' and without going into all the possible definitions, I'd say that is fair. Similar updates at the bottom of this page.

'Latest Vegan News'

I hate being obligated to share information I am pretty much drawn in to find when I already tried to tell people tactfully. Especially since I rarely confirm any actual readers of my life's work and it seems like someone else tells everyone before I get the chance. I found this website and there was a rather bold post about this topic I have been thinking about. The problems are "too many to confront". If people can't do it for themselves then why would you do it for your pets? I guess animal cruelty is the answer, but we are just as cruel to each other. Also, expanding on this topic would pretty much halt almost every activity we do everyday to really change. However, to be less hypocritical for places like animal shelters where the pet may have been abused or mistreated, why would we serve them other animals that have been killed? If anyone has an excuse for eating chicken it would be me. I was nearly killed in a motorcycle accident in Cambodia because a chicken was flying across the road. It walked as it approached the road and took off just in time to nearly collide with me before I broke and slid on the heavy antique. For awhile I thought this way. Then one day I bought some ramen on my road trip shortly before becoming vegan. I read the codes on the packaging and don't ask me how, but it told me how my life was going to change soon. One chicken that almost took away my life doesn't justify eating anymore than zero. The local who walked up to me to see what happened said, "Do you believe in Jesus?" I said, "Yes." This is no news, so I am still dealing with good news. -----

I got into DJing because I was originally an album type of person and still am, but for the past two months and a half I've had one song on my old cracked iPad. Wisin - Prohibida (feat. ## Some fresh mix?

This is from a year ago. I discovered it on the NESTHQ. I can't listen to the whole thing before I post, but I remember I liked it at the time. It's a style some call 'Happy Hardcore' which you will know it's unique sound when you listen to this mix by Darren Styles. There is a remix of Gold Skies which I liked around when I worked some events at the Hard Rock Hotel in Chicago. A part of me is living there right now in another way later as some stuff I recently paid for was eating out of the Shell gas station via Guitar Center gift cards living from the Mission downtown.

Top Gear

Speaking of shows I loved... Well I guess Jeremy Clarkson had that 'near crossing-the-line' sense of humor, but I thought he made the show? I haven't seen 'BBC's Top Gear' in awhile and one day I should own all the old episodes to see what happened. I guess that crew made a new show, I just found out, only on Amazon. ✕ Jeremy Clarkson - ✕ Richard Hammond - ✕ James May - ✕ Another person we can remember today in a different way is Tom Petty. Easy to take his music for granted because it was so classic. There are a lot of songs that play everywhere and you might not have thought that was him. I never really owned his albums and find it impossible to imitate that range and style of vocals. Two links to go with this: Futuristic cars from the Geneva Motor Show by Denver Post Mix from NestHQ : Ducky (from 2 Years ago, it's really unique)

This is homework for May. It's a long list and if I add anymore to it you won't be able to choose. If you are doing an encore it might be easier, but I would guess someone wouldn't use this list exclusively except for myself. Even when I am mixing from a list like this I make some impulse buys and tracks are released on the day I decided to buy and I can't resist the freshest track sound to go along with the rest. The only section to check back on this post is the mixes section which I will be optionally updating until the next 'Mix in the Making'. Thanks for reading and it's exciting to share that this summer will be jam packed with way too much good music for everyone to remember it by and enough to save some to find for another year. Artist - Title

New 'survival basics' vegan products

Date

2018-04-03 22:37:54

I have received email verification that these survival tools are animal product and testing free. Some or most Sew-ology threads... I have verified only a few I have recently used (threads 1254549 col2108, 1255637 col1414, 1254580 col1001 and 1254507 col1008). If you are worried about specific dye testings or colors, email a retailer that sells these. Available from Hobby Lobby, these fabrics/trims/other : Jersey Knit-Gray 945550, 1510981 Style 2306R (Black trim) Dantex, Sparkle elastic trim item 1257526, Black Flannel 617332 and Winter White (anti pill, polar fleece type) 827220 plus 1343946 Sew-on magnetic snap (Sew-ology). Shoe Goo. I have purchased this and see it at several Walmart stores. It helped me survive a long period when I couldn't afford new shoes. Repair the soles and more with excellent longevity per application. Also, Huffy bicycles claim to be all man made materials and cruelty free. I have asked about these three's suppliers and very specific in my questioning. Of course this isn't an official vegan verified stamp of approval. Those companies (such as vegan.org) may visit and monitor specific products independently. Rejected on my list is Pentel as they are unsure. Irony my tattoo is in Chinese as this seems to be a big reason why a company may be unsure. I seem to have read on the internet that Pilot is without question 100% cruelty free and animal product free, but I haven't communicated with them yet. Other general companies to reject in the cruelty arena are most large ones in many necessity product categories (floss, toothpaste, deodorant, toilet paper and cleaning supplies). There are many alternatives labelled as cruelty free in specialty shops and large grocery stores as well. I don't know enough about this as a lot of it is required by law (which is something I cannot slightly comprehend anymore) and pictures on the internet show what they show. You can reject my information, but it is the truth. I am growing with it not as a lecturer, but as a musician who has been forced to find out the truth for myself for health reasons that professionals failed to solve. If I didn't tell you, later in life you would be angrier at me, this goes for any age. Thanks to the helpful customer service representatives who have taken the time to find out this information and responded politely. Side note: Upgraded search to the right bar. You may see some additions to this page of findings as the research continues. I guess while I am at it, I forgot to share this mix with you from around eight months ago. Whipped Cream is one of those younger DJs that might think I am stalking them, but I'm just really protective. Here it is.

Strict vegan update

Date

2018-04-08 16:39:49

More bad news. After noticing new changes on the labels, I contacted the company that makes Vega. Then, I recently did more research. I remembered something Hershey said about this, but it didn't register. Seems my old definition for strict vegan is now very difficult to follow in the store. It was based on a suggested label addition in concern to food allergies in this FDA Act of 2004. Apparently these phrases are what companies should be putting on their labels. It is not required by law. So, I guess some of us have a new choice to make. Others like myself may have to wait until we have a kitchen. This may seem like no big deal to most people, but I was looking for those since I saw them when I first decided to become vegan instead of vegetarian. Ironic Vega broke it when their cartons malfunctioned and I had veggie power shake all over me several days in a row. I didn't tell them about how all four leaked on me because that could have happened anywhere along the delivery chain. So until the act is amended to say 'must be labelled' this way, look for the ones that may say in a facility 'free' of them. It isn't being redundant because even Vega.org will approve it for being vegan as long as they are strict with storage and sanitation, or at least they did as far as I know when writing this post. Will we be able to go as far as being vegan is a job requirement in comparison to skills or experience? How much experience? "Are you experienced?"

Update (End of March, '18)

Date

2018-03-30 17:25:25

New 'Mix in the Making' will be posted in a week or so... It's already nearly thirty tracks long with choices for a mix to complete by May 1st. I'm keeping the new album section for now and will be updating a new section like I sort of had before with mixes I have listened to and pass on to you. Side note: Most of the stuff I approve to post isn't normally excessively explicit unless that is what I think is needed at the time. In general I think people swear too much. Any words one uses over and over makes them lose their sting, meaning or seriousness. I guess I am guilty of this sometimes because society is numb to certain concepts. There was a song with J.Lauryn singing that sounded like she was swearing, but it was listed in the lyrics as 'He knows how to fun me like that'. This is not proper grammar, but that is a lyrical license songwriters have to break different rules to make new meaning that isn't tired. Also, Ckwal's only album is not going to iTunes in April as I updated in several posts.

What is Ckwal doing this summer?

Date

2018-04-09 15:12:44

The 'Mix in the Making' series is a great break for me in some ways. It is an educational outline or a place to start for someone with little time to make mixes or to start listening to good music. It has also given me space to make up progress in some other areas I am lacking professionally and personally. Not only in the present and future, but in my beliefs with entertainment culture pertaining to ethics, popular trends vs. traditional beliefs, 'crime and punishment' (so to speak) and how we express our value to one another; whether it be love, family, friendship, work relationships or plain and tough business. I finally bit the bullet with a little push from myself and peers. Avoiding a total deviation from Ckwal's original mission statement, I bought a new iPod touch and officially formed Ckwal as a volunteer, music service business. All that practice on the glitchy, failing iPad helped me prepare for going back to a smaller screen size with better speed and reliability. My first mix was a remake of Ckwal Mix 2017020. I lost this mix because it wouldn't back up. I could play it for awhile and then I even bought a used recorder to record it. By the time the recorder arrived, it wouldn't play in entirety. I sold the recorder without using it and was able to scrap together a few more mixes together (including the New Year bridge mixes) using some computer tricks, but recently I couldn't use the DJ application at all. I look forward to bringing some new mixes this summer to ckwal.net from tracks I've already posted, to ones that are yet to be released or discovered in all styles. Sincerely, Ckwal

This is bringing together the first two mixes of the year with a special edition. There are a couple tracks from a previous mix and using Maroon 5 plus similar style conflicts from the first mix of the year. It's the general difficulty of fusing all these together in which I realized I should start making some of these myself (to make sure they can be done). Without too many track choices at the moment in my library, I am basically throwing most of them out there. I'll update you when I think I am going to mix a really fresh summer kickoff. Special thanks and farewell to Magan from crossroads center. Monday 16th April 2018, 17:54 34:38 Felix Cartal - Walking By (feat. Saturday 21st April 2018, 19:39 44:45 I have a lengthy story to go along with this one, but it is difficult to tell as it is split up over six years. I have to start over for Mix in the Making #7, so I am putting this out there for #6. There should be enough for an encore. Also, a couple dedications had to be removed and others are in the process of being updated to stay true to the mix. Charli XCX - Emotional Radiohead - Spinning Plates
Watgood - Inhaler Calvin Logue - Less Is More Wild Culture - Love Myself (EXPLICIT)

May

It's May already. 2018-3 is going to happen as soon as the right mix falls together. Ckwal's main base-land is probably moving in late July. If so a great deal may change, though there is a potential for quite a bit to stay the same. I tried posting that earlier and plans started to disintegrate, so it'll at least be a vagabondish vacation. My main commitments so far this year have been: -9 Mix in the Making Lists (More subparts if time allows and musical works are found) -Up to 9 Mixes (So far there are 3 including the Special Edition) -Other entertaining or insightful information As Ckwal is a volunteer company and a requirement at the shelter I stay at currently is to officially volunteer, I have also been integrating community services. In relationship with my dedication to veganism, I have regularly been burying roadkill and other wildlife (such as birds, squirrels, possums, snakes) to respect these creatures and give them burials. *Check local guidelines for larger creatures if doing this yourself.* I find in the vegan culture besides strong resistance in politics, spirit and character there is a growth to the love and respect of animals because of the way they treat us. This isn't just with eating and cruelty-free products which abuse living creatures. Please slow down to the speed limit on the roads and pay attention when driving. Especially the giant trucks spewing rocks off their trailers. God gave me a mission post events from similar carelessness to share with you the solutions for our mistakes. Repenting from sins is a start to regaining our innocence and inner child-like appreciation of life. Those around us will try to corrupt this at any age and with prayer we can ask Jesus for the power to conquer any addiction. Life is riddled with these type of things and allures that shorten and cheapen our lives. Music is serious to me and it has saved my life from a kid when I started guitar covering Kurt Cobain songs and writing songs on guitar and piano out of depression from what I now believe was spiritual presence. I continue my musical career listening to top DJs and finding music. For me it is a 'Spiritual Revolution' in my own awareness to save and conquer our other unknown entities. In my experience along with being homeless for nearly two years and international travel of over seven years, I have found an ignorance in control of ones' own souls and misunderstandings of how to protect themselves along with their effect on others in this world and other parallel worlds, levels or what some may call heaven and hell living in existence alongside our lives. On top of that our language and translations miscalls common terms to mislead beings or attempt to make themselves gods which Christianity refers to as deities. I'll explain further as my guidance reveals more and in additional proofreads.

Mix in the Making #6

2018-04-23 16:50:32

With most of the DJ scene grieving, I am posting June's homework early. Seems like I am posting these early every month, but this time I was really going to wait. One DJ that was and is always pushing the style boundaries and reaching new places with me back when I listened to his podcast regularly and now on Soundcloud is Laidback Luke. My friend in Russia, a young doctor/student at the time made me listen to Luke later. Andrey and I met on the street after a concert in St. Petersburg where I saw DJ Gira. I followed her podcast, while she was doing that, after discovering it when I moved back to the States. Anyways, a lot of this list ends with tracks from Mixmash Records and OTW. They are effective for me right now. I rediscovered his trail while recently checking up on all my VIP DJs which you can find on this page. I guess we all have to find new ways to dig when we reach a dead end or some rut online as many of our record stores and CD shops are closing. World travelling DJs just can't haul around a huge collection, so unless there is an alternate dimension where shops crate out a collection to mix on stage with shock absorbing record players, I don't foresee it being beyond local niches. I'm also using my unresponsive label list, Pitchfork and radio leads. I added a book find of the month and I'll update the links of the month section at the end for stuff to click on while your listening to other than instagrams. Mix in the Making #6 No Mana - Someone to Erase Camila Cabello - Never be the Same 3LAU & Said The Sky - Fire (Feat. NÉONHÉART) Super8 & Tab - Seconds Away (feat. ## Update (Last day of April)

2018-04-30 12:30:03

I updated the below post with more shows and an updated intro essay. It applies to music and video games, videos, applications, text, intellectual property, whatever. It's important and a lot of stuff I am writing on here no one talks about. Dave Matthews sings, "...and these crimes between us grow deeper." I'm thinking about a new mix for next week as I type and listen to 'Black Messiah' by D'Angelo.

I submitted this mix to thissongissick for a contest that gives passes to Electric Forest this summer as a prize. I wasn't going to even share this with anyone, but had a change of heart and sent it to them. I won't be able to attend this year, but I've been. I also was able to meet with these guys (from thissongissick) at a couple of festivals a few years ago. Typically they have artists in a tent for meet and greets. I handed the guy who used to be in Krewella (Rainman) a beer (the girls wouldn't take one because they had to sing later) and was able to give 12th Planet a demo one year. This is an unpublished version of Mix #3. I made a couple mistakes and you can't really tell, so I'll share it as such. It's a good mix for transition from a 'radio-head' to whatever else you have to do afterwards. This is in thanks to radio announcer Payton who is on near Grand Island.

2018-05-17 12:32:48

For July already? Ckwal is moving to Houston or at least it's in motion. It won't be easy to pry myself out of Nebraska... I've added more links and a couple of books. This month things got serious in my head, but I guess it wasn't me I was listening for. Posting this now and will start work on an encore or the final two of the year. ## Random updates

2018-05-21 20:05:32

I'm totally absorbed in my new hobby in between listening and the rarer mixing sessions. I was broken off from my year of tattoos when the artist said he would never tattoo me again. I am pondering some new ideas, but don't really think it's an 'anyone can do it' type of mentality. As it is not just about the talent or aesthetic artistry. I designed one based off of Oasis' logo in Korean (pictured below). I bought one album since Noel Gallagher's High Flying Birds latest album on repeat. 'As You Were' Apparently it was National Red Cross Day yesterday and coincidentally I donated my seventh unit of blood in my first year since starting that mission in North Platte last June. It is pretty much the maximum one can do. It is six units or three sessions if you are doing power red (double units). Last time it was the only thing that I was looking forward to doing. This time it was a big decider on what I was eating because as a strict vegan in central Nebraska who is also crazy about NON-GMO, there aren't a lot of choices. I habitually consumed whatever had the highest iron most mornings. Besides that though it kept me in Nebraska when I felt like giving up and moving somewhere else because of whatever stressors or relationship difficulties. By fate in this extra time besides getting better at my new hobby, will be life-changing positive experiences. Liam Gallagher's Instagram, Noel Gallagher's Instagram

Favorite Viveros Painting: 'If Looks Could Kill' (This one was a planned tattoo, but was cancelled even after receiving Viveros Brand team approval.) Another idea was to combine these two: 'Naughty Naughty' (I'd call her Whisper) and 'Roses Are Blood Red' (I'd call her Wish)

Tattoo instagram list (edited): Parental or mentor/guardian advisory: Possible explicit imagery and/or mature subject matter of a sometimes personal nature. Brian Viveros Matt Dunn Church Hill CJ Side note update 5.23.18 You may notice I post a lot of country songs which now talk about drinking and other potential problems in various ways. This is my fifth year of 100% sobriety from both. I know we can get more out of life in other ways now. So, don't think you have to live out all the lyrics literally, especially when you have these untradable songs. Also, I don't support smoking although I value the talent of duplicating the look of a burning cigarette in an oil painting. I didn't like Camila Cabello's song at first because I thought this may be how tobacco companies are advertising now. Now I think it is comparing how some choices alter yourself in ways that you can't go back from and actually does the opposite. Sometimes when we get tattoos or other comparable choices - we trade away something to remember our mistakes or sins; sometimes we are looking for something we lack and need to remember our aspirations, motivations, desires or needs. Wish and Whisper were names I thought up for future child names as I used to do when I taught English overseas (except as English' nicknames to compliment their native language name for primarily education purposes). They were for specific people in a dream-mind or my own future similarly. I am adding this update which was going to be on the

'Mix in the Making #7 Encore' which is in progress. It will be almost a complete post arriving sometime by the First of June.

Soon June

Date

2018-05-30 14:34:45

Bought tracks for Ckwal Mix #4 mostly from what is left of the Mix in the Making #4 'Series'. The 'Ckwal Virtual Wedding' might mix near the end of the year, if we can wait that long. I'm debating a hand tattoo based off of artwork by Nina. This stuff is mental (said in Welsh accent from a friend I met in Thailand who once wore festival bands for over a year though they still may be on). I'm sure people do it all the time with their commitments and don't talk about it. I'm posting what I can to share how I'm dealing with big events that for me may only be an imagination though they translate to real 'works' as Perfect Circle calls this concept (one interpretation). Until the next mix, I can say R3HAB's 'I Need R3HAB 295' deserves a listen. --

CKWAL Mix 2018-4 S-alt

Date

This mini mix is the only alternate I'll make to Mix 4. I could not even get the desire to think about another version with these tracks. This is one of those the DJs used to do some time ago when they were experimenting with starting and ending with the same tracks for whatever reason. It's starts off a little bit without overlapping transitions and ends early. Good for quick commutes or walks, as the first mix is a really 'big commitment' (something my brother said a while back when I handed him one of my first mixes to screen). I haven't seen him in several years shortly after that. ## Extra Tracks for Mix in the Making #8

It's possible to do two mixes with the combined tracks of the previous Mix in the Making post. Also, most of these posts have albums full of good choices for mixes. You may have noticed or will notice that I am making mixes based off these lists that borrow from each other. I guess that is because the tracks I'm feeling when I get to make them change as well as the spirit I'm trying to save. This period has been emotional and I am closing this list section now because it is a natural stopping point*. There is only one more Mix in the Making (#9) for the year and then I will be either mixing off these or doing something else until 2019. Right now my goal is to return to four mixes a month in 2019. # One More Four

I said I wouldn't do another mix in series four. An exception candidate basically made itself when I added some of the country songs to my library. I decided to publish the MixList early for Fathers' Day to all the Fathers and fathers to be out there. Not to outshine my own father, but when I was conspiring the name to Ckwal from SKMillion there was a brainstorm about how my 'formerly know as...' was my artist-self's father. I tried not to let that seed too much because it quickly gave me identity problems as I was living around my real parents at the time. I am still reminded of that to this day and how it strangely jigsaws creatively into reality. ## Vegan update

As I updated earlier, I donated my seventh blood unit and was celebrating with some pop chips that I thought were vegan. The website said they were vegetarian and I was disappointed to have to stop eating them and toss them to the birds trying to give up worms. Anyways I contacted the company and found they use bone char in the processing of the sugar. Is this even okay for vegetarians? End of story: I was able to celebrate with a tattoo of the Red Cross the day before, even though my stomach and vegan angels are pissed. This experience gave a different meaning to Rearview Town by Jason Aldean because I love this song and this town I'm in. Sometimes feel guilty for even singing it to myself.

Mid June Update

2018-06-17 19:24:02

I typically haven't been moved to move on a move with so much time ahead of the trip. It's is proving to be challenging in many ways, but probably has it's positive advantages. I'm thinking of putting together a mix before the end of this month. I did one this morning and it's hodge-podge though I almost thought it was going to force me to post these tracks today, as the first section was melting together naturally. Then I tried to follow Ariana Grande with Michael Ray and it fell apart with a booing audience (metaphorically). Anyways these are mostly from Mix in the Making #5 which as of now is incomplete, in part because I used some of these already. I bought this vegan sunscreen which is pretty terrible. If it could be used as glue, like a few house tracks, then I would do that. *Update 6/18/18 - I found the tracks I needed on the same page I made in March and one new track from a great album by Naux Faux discovered on Bassnectar's Soundcloud page. I also updated and republished this update from May. It's about my volunteer work I am on and off with in association with my commitment to a vegan lifestyle which is beyond what goes in and on our bodies. I listened to this mix by Miss Monique. It is live at Radio Intense, so I am not positive if this is considered Mind Games Podcast anymore.

Mix in the Making #8 III

Date

2018-06-20 15:16:17

Since it's 2018 the theme has been a kind of 'forever'. For families, kids or the 'young at heart' it may have been long lasting toys or something like that... I'm taking a break from my new hobby and decided to post more music in my frustration. (Don't think this is how I'll react everytime.) Here is the first part of #9 as a second mix for #8 or for some DJs it will be a third, in case you are using album tracks or carry-overs/impulse buys for the mixes. I am having a tough time with #5, so I know these are not easy to do as weekly mixes. This is because of theme, momentum, possibly practice and time in relation to the cutting edge of relevance to my current standing or situation. Brett Young - Like I Loved You Dropgun - Dark Sky Lush & Simon - Feel So Carrie Underwood - Before He Cheats CID - I Miss You DJ Drew - What Did She Say Furo - Bushman Hedo - Put Em Up Sheni Doko x Gianka - Gun Control Deadmau5 - Let Go (feat. Some of the albums are for friends of the past that used to like certain bands that may not have time to keep up with releases. Usually I list artists I trust with each release and will listen as an album, so until I can afford the releases I listed, I will not listen to excerpts. Thanks for understanding. Clean lyrical versions and Deluxe albums usually defaulted when available.* Otherwise look for explicit warnings on cover.

Soon July

2018-06-19 12:12:08

This is an update to Soon June. The June events I listed will end tonight. I wonder if anyone went and saw a Ckwal 'clone'. Nelly would be fun to party with in Vegas tonight, but I'm just dreaming about these events. I'll scour the internet tonight after work to see if I can find pictures from these countdown to summer events. Besides that I haven't had any thoughts about the virtual wedding. It is probably an incorrect term because I'm a traditional guy in that arena. I'm not optimistic about it as I'll be turning 38 next month when I take a bus to Houston. So I'm still debating how to live up to the event and make a fun celebration and mix. So please try to have patience. It's not even halfway through the year and Ariana Grande was already flicking us off (they took it down). She knows the lyrics to that popular country song 'Marry Me'. Do you? Update: Mariah is going some exotic places before the end of the year.

CKWAL Mix 2018-5 (Encore)

Date

I made another one that would follow one of the other editions better, but it's overwhelming at seconds over an hour. I don't know what it is because I cannot keep mixing these songs. There is a big, ironically unintended pause after Rusko's song and Krewella's track talks about Tylenol, which like most medicines, have some animal product in them. Tuesday 3rd July 2018, 21:33

Date

2018-07-08 16:08:10

2018-5 (Encore) goes with 2018-5 SEAV and this probably follows the original mix. In other news I'm working on my TV show checklist *(now unpublished as of 5.23.19). I got a tattoo of Sasuke from Naruto after buying one DVD. Today instead of getting all the tracks for the rest of my mixes, I bought Pushing Daisies, Human Target, Michael Jackson's 'This is It' and Gordon Ramsay's self spoken autobiography. So, I guess Gordon is going to be my company on the bus ride to Texas in twelve days with a review from Keith Urban's latest if I can't overplay it. SMH. ## Update from header tagline 7.2-7.3.18

2018-07-04 00:01:02

Priority notification : Clif Bars, Silk and Rice Dream marked Pareve Dairy (unconfirmed shared machinery, products, or no ritualized cleaning) ; Hoka shoes unconfirmed (I bought some after reading this blog post. I tried to comment on the post, but it wasn't read or approved. Also, this supposed vegan is hanging out on what looks like to be leather. So, I would beware this blog is about vegan recommendations). If anyone sees an error in anything listed, please comment asap and I can change it. I am on a journey and not trying to mislead. My main dishes for everyday are almost all gone due to updated labeling or misinformation. If you are following long time vegans like Moby, keep in mind they have foods and materials that look like those of an animal family, but they are not the same. They are actually better and will replace any notion you had of favorites. Thanks for reading and listening. + Update 7.6.18 + Those looking for iron rich beverages to get ready for donating blood frequently without shared dairy facility could consider Ripple or Full Circle. I'll research these further, but I can't assume the certified vegan stamp is strict with what they allow to share facilities or machinery without reason or quoted desire to change. In ten days I'll appropriately disturbingly reach the first gallon to Red Cross. ++ Also, I have bought the tracks for the encore of the 2018-5 editions. You know I'm spending more time with these.

Vegan update (vehicles and more)

Date

2018-07-09 16:16:37

I was kind of avoiding this as it pertains to one of the reasons I am in debt (CDL education) and my job while trying to gain experience in it or find something else. This is an article I can start the bad news with from Huffington Post. Probably something I am missing about why things still are this way and why I am only bothered and finding out about it at 37 years old. If you are a new vegan, I wouldn't get discouraged because things change quickly and it only strengthens your achievements unless you do 'Breaking Bad' so to speak. Even in some vegan restaurants you may not find such strictness with ingredient manufacturing and things like rat traps, dish soap, or restaurant cleaning brands. This stuff exists and some places may already be ahead of me on this concept. My most recent vision was a hotel with restaurant and venue built from the ground up with these ideals. Then we would have to confront other issues about what guests try to sneak into the place and what's the word... It is in the future and technology is making anything possible.

End of July update

Date

2018-07-26 20:22:02

I recently moved to Houston and even though my life is a wreck, the first two days were some kind of dream after thirty something hours on a bus. I bought Wet's latest album 'Still Run' on the way after I listened to Gordon telling his book. I needed one more album besides what I had and this one has been with me. It is one of those that makes you sad because they as a band or she as a singer are probably about to be too big to be 'near to us' in no time, if you know what I mean. I was thinking of words to write about it though I don't always like to try to do that. One song reminds me of a Phil Collin's classic that might have come on the radio when I was a younger guy and others are like new jazz standards that have never been heard. Anyways, between this one and Graffiti U, I have really felt supported in these hard times.

I could probably do a little better version, but this one has a decent theme and feels like warming up the whole time. Funny/serious story about Alison Wonderland. When she was passing through Chicago on the Run tour, I bought a ticket where I saw a really unique show by Tove Lo earlier that same year. The hologram on the ticket looked like some image of Jesus. I went to the show thinking of how I was going to try to get back stage to meet her. Everything outside was completely 'wonderland'. Frightening surreal I became frozen and paranoid about being in a different dimension and having the hologram of Jesus ripped in half by the ticket taker, so I never went into the venue. I was completely sober too. Later I had to sell almost all of my CDs for around a dollar or so each and I put the whole ticket in my copy of 'Run' for the next listener. ## More on the vegan/cruelty free research. Read to the end for the good news.

2018-07-16 15:20:28

I recently was communicating with Vegan Action from vegan.org about how they can approve a product with a U-D label on it and still be vegan. You can find most of their information on their website. This I have updated along with other posts found on the vegan compilation posts page. It still brings up more discussion that many people ignore. I was searching for clarification and it didn't take long to find support in the research, but also doesn't take long to find misinformed websites that are full of good information. Well is it misinformation or is the problem in what companies really don't know about their own products. Some business persons might be on an island somewhere putting their brand on something that has been compiled from outsourced parts that even the most informed customer service representative has no idea about. They don't visit their own factory nor their partnerships' factories. It is possible the source product is hidden behind several tiers of who knows what? So we have to make everything ourselves from the building blocks and still communicate about every part. Don't think that reading someone's blog and buying a pair of shoes will guarantee you have a really well loved product. If you have seen an image of a white rabbit's hair burned down to the skin and you have a ton of income with a company without at least thoughts of how to make your company avoid this everyday, you are corrupt in some way. Especially if you have a scripted email to 'deal' with an email from someone like me. Another problem which has improved is customer service representations not answering all the questions you ask or failing to read what you wrote them. Is it because there is that much bad feedback? My basic notes this morning are these: Cruelty-free vs vegan: aren't they the same? Some companies, websites, labels and even communications are confused or confusing. I think if a company or product isn't 100% vegan than it isn't cruelty-free. Read below about honey and milk to see and think about this topic. So how does this affect me living in Nebraska where they haul cows in masses in the back of prison trucks? Well, I don't have many choices and even the vegan cereal or granola I consume every day has another variety in the same brand that has honey in the product line. There is even one with a 'save the bees' campaign that has honey in one of their cereals. Go figure out how this makes one sleep at night. Even when I cut out nearly everything there isn't much left out here in the country. If it is 'vegan approved' then it has probably been on a machine leased by a different brand that is shared with at the minimum some dairy product and cleaned with most likely cruel cleaning products. Part of the reason is money, but not most of the time. I really think it is awareness and the fact that most people can't start this journey. Our culture is to ingrained or even souled by demons if you are a believer to act, feel and live a certain way. That will lead me to the next vegan post on why shared machinery needs to be changed and what I think Jesus has to do with all of this battle. Example on a website that is confusing or confued: <https://logicalharmony.net/cruelty-free-vegan-brand-list/> I recently emailed her about this because there is a list that says it is cruelty free with some that are marked 100% vegan. Well they should all be both, so unless I am reading something wrong, she has been misled. Here is a link about how honey is not so innocent. This is stuff that just thinking about reasons why a vegan wouldn't eat honey come to mind, but for nearly thirty something years of my life, I never thought of once. So, if you are wondering why I am blogging all the time about this it is because I feel a responsibility to share not only what I am told is the truth, but what I feel has been spoken to my soul from God. That brings up more questions to others: Why now? <https://www.peta.org/issues/animals-used-for-food/animals-used-food-factsheets/honey-factory-farmed-bees/> Type in the google search box for example: "Is milk cruel" Top results: <http://www.onegreenplanet.org/animalsandnature/is-there-more-cruelty-in-a-glass-of-milk-or-pound-of-beef/> <https://www.peta.org/issues/animals-used-for-food/animals-used-food-factsheets/cows-milk-cruel-unhealthy-product/> <https://www.peta.org/features/dairy-industry-cruelty/> Biggest conflicts below for me personally, that if I stop buying them, I may not be eating. The bible says we can fast for up to 30 days, but there is really 'no safe way to do this' and it makes working very difficult to impossible. See the posts around the time when I experienced that for more information. -Brands that say they are vegan and sell honey options - U-D and certified vegan Other things to consider: Parent companies, umbrella brands or mega-corporations that all OK or are required by law to test on animals. This is where we have a problem with the law. -Shoe brands or other products that use leather products for fashion or use cruel products in them. If you don't have a problem with it or don't care to find out, how about a law that makes it required to tell all of us which ones are cruel and do have animal products so it is more expensive to kill or hurt than not to kill or not to hurt. Bottom line for me in this is: I don't know how I am going to proceed. I see long time vegans eating at restaurants with products named after the non-vegan ones and I think I would never go to one. I worked in a vegan restaurant and since becoming stricter, I probably would have been in outrage about some of the things I saw there enough to quit. In turn though I would have had to eat at local free food/soup kitchens/shelter meals etc. and given up my vegan status. The person from vegan action said on says on their website that certain ideals I hold would be more harmful then helpful to making others want to become vegan and the vegan community, but I don't know because we are behind the times and it has taken me less than two years to catch up. So, how fast do you think our children will find out and feel betrayed or react even more strongly? I think of boycotts, picketing, mass starvations or suicides. Also, everyone loves their animals at home more than their own children or significant other sometimes, so is it because you never owned a cow you can't give up McDonalds? I think that until there are at least 50% fast food places that are strict vegan and affordable; we are a lazy, unbelieving human race. ----- Besides giving up all of this stuff that I would rather not consume, buy or have on my body etc., the good news is that with the rest of this month I am thinking of sharing some top ten lists until the end of the year along with the rest of the main mixes and possibly some different entertaining subjects. These top ten lists or approximately that number will be of my own life from being born in 1980 to now. Top 10 lists 80s / 90s Singer songwriters of childhood Or pop singers / boy band / girl band Scene changers in music ex: Weird Al Top rock bands of high school or previous Top oldies and classic rock Top ten life changers in entertainment Movies lists and other TV shows I watched growing up Sports legends of childhood

Early September Listening

Date

2018-09-03 21:17:15

It's already September and Ckwal is really taking time off. Well the non-Ckwal side of me is working. I do have some discoveries for you to listen to now. I haven't got a chance to listen to it myself because I lost my headphones, God forbid. I thought I'd notify you that the new Magic Tape is out by The Magician. It's #82. "Who's afraid of 82?" Armin's crew would say. Well that is the year my brother was born, so it depends on which one you get! Also, check out Hexagon's Soundcloud. This label's style (founded by Don Diablo who has a regular podcast too) is really unique and getting more reliably astounding on their futuristic tracks. I like these newer ones so far: Stadiumx & Metrush - Do It Again (feat. BISHØP) Bali Bandits - All On You (If I Can See) The next two are my favorite which are part of an album on Hexagon called Festival Weapons EP that is all pretty good. Jordan Jay & Arena - Perfect LOUD ABOUT US! - Kill The Beat Also, my new radio talent crush is one of the ladies on 99.5 FM. I think she is on around 10am through lunch, but the morning announcer is fun to listen to also and one of the guys on later plays decent playlists. It's Indian music or Bollywood? and I can't change the station. There are so many music styles and hybrids. So, if you are in Houston or can stream it online, I recommend it. That's all I got for now.

I was consuming Simply Juice as I said in an earlier post for health and Iron absorption to donate blood. One of the only reasons I live lately. Everytime I find a regular it is taken away by a *woohoo* new flavor. Typically honey. This time its D3 (sheep's wool is the source). I guess I should have known because it's Coca Cola. They don't put that on the bottle though. I guess I was blinded to it until someone lifted the veil. Or was it because they crossed the line to make a new demon. Collect them all! I'm sick to death of you hiding this from me my whole life and know your empire will fall. Carmel color from animals and not simply juice anymore. I know you could care less what happens to me, but what if it was you designing new versions of OJ on the table needing my blood? Are you going to reject the vegan blood who possibly stayed alive only to save you? It doesn't take much to ruin the world, it takes a lot to save it. Are you still waiting for the sun to burn out or do you see the light? Miracles are shown everyday to me, but many fail to open their perception. If you wait you will fear how long you forced them closed when chances were given to you to change your ways. I stopped waiting and it is difficult to avoid his wrath as you beat me down for no reason. Not many read this, but I see it's consequence sometimes before I write it. Some are so deep in the darkness, my screaming will never get them out.

CKWAL's 2018 Bridge

2018-08-05 17:06:50

This mix is mostly Christian music though they can apply to most life situations. This is my second year of being homeless and vegan (two years soon and end of September respectively). I have stayed in four shelters identified as Christian or some kind of mission from Chicago to Denver to Kearney, NE to Houston. There is no stereotypical group found here as you may conjure up images without this kind of experience. It is so difficult sometimes with spiritual warfare that can be of the mind and spirit or the battle of life between the streets and sometimes struggling to keep a place to sleep. Sometimes it feels like a job or recovering or whatever it is you are trying to accomplish is nearly impossible. With daily sermons or speeches, messages, music and or videos, classes on the Bible or life skills, meetings and constant prayer it seems with faith, time and hard work, almost everything is possible. This mix of all the Christian music left of the year and some new ones is dedicated to the Star of Hope Men's Center in Houston. It exercises strong faith and other specific skills similar to the Pacific Garden Mission in Chicago in some ways, but very different in other ways. I was a person who rarely liked Christian music and still am very picky about it, so this is a rare mix along with a rare thing I am doing by letting go of my iPod. This year has been about taking big breaks from the mixes while exploring and understanding other parts of our culture in America and putting what we can into those as we would have with our main passions. I'll be back with the top ten lists soon. Sunday 5th August 2018, 11:21 1:19:18 Natalie Grant - More Than Anything Zach Williams - Chain Breaker Chris Tomlin - Good Good Father Keith Urban - Same Heart Skillet - Brave Lauren Daigle - Trust in You Jonny Diaz - Define Me Hannah Kerr - Warrior Nichole Nordeman - Turn Your Eyes Upon Jesus (Look Up) Hillsong Live - I Surrender (Live) Wet - Love is Not Enough Mandisa - Good News Cory Asbury - Reckless Love Blanca - Real Love Hillsong Young & Free - Real Love (Live) Mark Schultz - Lift Up Your Hands (When You Can't) Audeka & Rawtekk - Dark Energy Crowder - All My Hope

I'm continuing the 'Just Added' series in small doses. Tonight (9.13) I'll share this popular one that finally hooked me. I should still hate it and don't drink, as I said in an old post. # No encore?

2018-08-03 16:02:39

It has been a challenging move to Houston. I had a partial vacation out of the shelters with lots of volunteer work. I even buried a street cat. Now I am focusing on God and working out the reason I was called to this amazing city. Bad news is I am selling my iPod to make sure I stay vegan. You can bid on eBay with user TreasureTradeToo. It has a lot of pictures in the mirror because I only have the camera on this device. I am rambling to say there may not be an encore to 2018-7. I used a few tracks from the encore list and it was short, but sweet. Will the year's mixes end here? Only time will tell. I'll be figuring out this challenge and others I will try to address in the months to come.

Update late 9.10.18

2018-09-11 02:30:10

I moved again. Things are going well. It's monsoon season in Houston or is it hurricane season. It floods fast in these streets, but as a former Taiwan countryside resident it feels even more like home. After two years of homelessness at the end of this month, (I have been staying in some hostels and using airbnb sometimes since late July which doesn't count really though it wasn't always by choice or financial ability) I don't have much 'stuff' left. It's what I wanted, I remember, when I was travelling in Thailand and Laos. Well it's freeing and natural I guess, but that was five years ago when I thought of having a light load in Bangkok. This update is to say that I will find more music later in the month. I have been tuning into the radio, but really giving deep thought to other stuff. The vegan life I have reached isn't at a love of food or animals right now and that's sad. Although every living creature I can appreciate that I sparcely see in Houston. The only ones that puzzle me are those suicidal ants. I asked God to make ants more intelligent so I wouldn't have to worry about crushing one on accident. Ciao.

If you have heard Jessie Reyez on some pop songs via the radio you might have liked her or thought she was fabulously quirky or whatever. Listening to her latest album post on soundcloud right now and I think I underrated her because I was pissed about how she ended Calvin Harris' last album. Reason is because it reminded me of how I loved the vibe The Beach Boys gave on some of my favorite songs as a kid. As I finished that previous sentence, track four started and suddenly it's too explicit for me to write about. We probably wouldn't get along well together for very long, but everybody has that these days. Most people say it is how they don't take something or other, but if you think that thought you are taking something different instead. Thanks for the free listening. Also, The Magician's latest mix is out. I haven't listened to it or the last one in full except for the first couple of tracks due to listening environment interruptions or time, so I cannot comment on them yet.

See the below post for updated findings which will continue until it is too cluttered. I am working a lot and it isn't in the music business, so there hasn't been a whole lot of time to search for the best tracks due to timing and resources. I still tune into Radio Dabang a lot even at home on my portable radio, but I never know what tracks I am listening to... Good news is that I am out of the shelters for now after nearly two years. There has been a lot going on in this move and the possibility of an acoustic EP or something else instead of regular mixes. This could be a side effect of the 'year of tattoos aka break from mixes', but since I don't have the equipment to go in either direction, I can only squeeze in the occasional song dig from my trusted sites, labels and artists. So, most of what you need is on this website to find what I can at the moment. I'm also making a trip to Dallas near Halloween to visit Red Cross with another double blood donation and hoping to get a mix for sure around the New Year 2018-2019. There may be a couple stories to tell if I can present them well and other festive posts before then, but I cannot promise or plan anything at the moment as unexpected as things happen as of now.

Just Added Update

2018-10-17 16:10:39

This post I am updating as I am writing this is going to be too full to add anymore. I may tweak the nostalgia sections, but any new tracks will be shared on a future post. I am on my fifth tattoo since December 15th, 2017 and will probably add to it twice to sync up with these 'just added' updates. I originally said I was trying to get as many tattoos as mixes (9). That update I took down because it shook my world. It looks like it may close to happening. There were seven mixes plus a bridge mix in August 2018 before I had to sell my iPod. Besides that I am planning the usual end of the year mix to launch 2019 from Houston if possible. Review all the mixes on this post since New Year's Eve 2015-2016 which is also found within a quick link to the right sidebar.

October in deep south

2018-10-02 16:13:34

As the weather gets milder in Texas with heat, the storms get more prevalent. People from the midwest as myself remember the fall and upcoming Halloween as bitter air, Jack-o-lanterns outside and the daunting winter ahead. I have been experimenting with some recipes and the seasonal produce available. One is a great breakfast starter or snack filler that derived from trying to make a tougher, chewier sugar cookie that didn't have to be cooled in the snow to make it solid. It is closer to a vegan pancake and has less sugar, but can be adapter to taste like a pie. There isn't a lot of brown sugar that is non-gmo and without carmel color or whatever they add, but there is a local one I have been trying with the stone ground, certified seed flour of King Arthur (orange package). Mapley, vegan potpancake Stir up in this ratio (I use 1/4 cups) 1 - Brown Sugar 1 - Cane Sugar 4 - Stone ground flour (add by five-finger pinch full while kneading if necessary) 2 - Water Knead lightly and coat with grapeseed oil. Get some crust going on high or medium high and flip to do the same. Then flip again on reduced heat and cover accordingly. Shut the heat off when it looks fairly edible and keep on the heat or remove covered to heat the inside more. It doesn't take long, but think of these as extra thick, mapley tasting pancakes. I cook them in a medium size pot/pan which makes it tougher to flip, but you can use a tool. Poke holes with chopsticks to let the heat travel through. The edges cook well with this type of pan and it can be covered economically. A key is the flour type as this has more protein and a distinct flavor, but also helps it's chewier final consistency. Try adding some organic Gala apples in diced chunks and only cane sugar, which gives it a pie taste, especially if cooled overnight in the fridge. (Change the ratio to 6 flour,3 sugar,3 water or combo of oil and 1 apple) Another quick recipe to condition yourself to this holiday season while it is still hot with fluctuating temps is this salad. Personal lunch size portion salad Stir together with chopsticks or hand toss 1/4 head organic lettuce Some bottled seasoned Capers in vinegar Fresh Jalapeno with some healthy dice size Lime Juice Malt Vinegar Grapeseed oil and salt Raw small hunks of medium organic carrots This same flavor profile is delicious with rice Everything I look for is organic or Non-Gmo and I have been thinking most Pareve or Kosher food is Non-Gmo because that is one of the statements about their regulation some time ago. It still it difficult to find companies that aren't using animal products somewhere in their line of products, but if I can't find them online or in the store - then they are probably safe to use. Also, pictures or recipes on the package can be fairly telling about the product, but not always. Presentation is part of the business too, but possibly companies are politically aware of that. Imperial sugars has a statement on the back of their packages that says they sounds strict. I haven't confirmed 'no bone-char usage', but if they aren't imported from a lot of various unknown countries - then I would guess they are free from that antiquated technology. If anyone finds out otherwise, let me know. Happy Halloween!

Other updates

Date

2018-10-18 16:14:37

If you were searching for Guddi Shah based on a previous update about radio Dabang, I apologize. They are making inconvenient changes right after I made those two posts and a public praise on her bio blub via their website. The first public comment I have made in like five years after leaving the social networks. That kind of behavior is predictable though as it has been the story of my life for awhile. Chester from Linkin Park committed suicide on my birthday last year and my Poppa and friend died two days before my birthday this year when I moved to Houston. How long does it take for one's luck to turn around? Did I trade it by writing/recording SKMillion's 'Luck' album in 2011ish? Well, yesterday, to change 'if possible' on the last post, I bought a Numark mixer and media turntable to get practicing for the year bridge thanks to Guitar Center. I have a library of music from Owsla's old Drip on my Berklee drive, but not much else, so I'll be squeezing in some tunes from the latest lists along with the Karma video journey and tats to my budget. Update: 10.23.18 This Twitter account says Guddi is on from 7am-10am. I have not verified that. 10.28.18. Is old information. She is not on then. I have contacted the radio station with no response. Some programming has improved to original quality.

Vegan shoes

Date

2018-10-03 18:33:53

I'm looking for new sandals and probably work shoes. I was hesitant to keep wearing the Converse All Rubber Chuck Taylor's because they are now associated with Nike as I was going on about in a previous update. I just read they have wool in them after a customer service rep. on the Nike.com chat told me they were vegan before I bought them. Now, a new rep. told me that don't have that update yet... I got rid of pretty much all my socks that were associated with any company that makes shoes with leather as well. It's pretty irritating for someone to make what they call a vegan model of a shoe and then have leather on another. There are some on REI.com that look pretty good. Also, people playing games with imitation leather like it's really fun to see someone uncomfortable about their surroundings. To me veganism is a religion because it brought me to the mission in Chicago and back to church, but also because sometimes it keeps me alive when I think my faith is failing me. So, to play games with it really is a serious thing. You can call artists' instruments and drivers' cars toys on another example, but if you aren't living for something - you are dying to something. Also, don't forget the countdown to this year's bridge song was by Tiësto who is turning 50 in January of 2019. This Press Play EP is good listening for now. ## Bridge update

2018-11-22 22:52:28

Some of the links I put on here may need individual disclaimers because I cannot claim to support or believe everything someone writes or is possessed to post. There are a lot of struggles in modern society, both in a real life and spiritual life that have no answer. I have listened to two more albums since DMB's latest. Interpol and in trying to find next year's bridge tune and virtual host, lil Wayne's 'Tha Carter V'. I was tormented by spiritual battles and in my environment in the hours leading up to buying this album and listening to it this morning. It's explicit, but some rappers, writers or spoken wordsmiths can get away with it because they are not jagged little pills to the ears. Whatever soul I was blessed with to listen to it the first time was pretty genius, but not like you would think. I wrote out titles I guessed to every track like some may have done or will do who buy the physical disc. It almost seemed like someone else chose him for man of the future year for last year in the present tense, so that could be a frustrating concept, but it is simply that. Zedd use to ask, "What if it was written in reverse?". I can't guarantee he will be on the bridge song too like Will was last year, but I didn't make a big deal about like it is or has been built up to this New Years. My two Numarks are being practiced on and all I need are the right songs and something to record it on so I can listen back and confirm it as the mix of the new time zone for bridge 2018-2019. Thank you

Last call? 'Year of tattoos'

Date

I finally had an artist do the Oasis logo in Korean I was sketching several times. Smack dab in the middle of my sleeve. Check one of the link at the bottom to navigate to an example of what it looks like. I was carrying around a version I did of it for awhile and on a dark, cold and rainy Sunday I honed myself to Violet Tiger. Bear re-sketched it in a smaller version and added a little bit of what looks like the text of some comics to the final version. Bear works as a tattoo apprentice for his brother's shop to help supplement his Hip Hop group or duo that has already been asked to perform or do work in Toronto. Below are the instagram links. This ink session was like a dual interview as I talked about this blog's tattoo journey nearing to an end with this seventh tattoo. I claimed to him that I wouldn't totally give up getting tattoos because I value the community and culture. ## Next year, 'Year of ...'

Last year's diversion from weekly mixes was body art which technically ends on the 15th of December. This year I will either be going back to more regular mixes or doing something similar. One idea was to start watching movies again and to tie in a mix with the movie or some other kind of theme that goes along with the movie of the month or week or whatever. If you get any other ideas send me a heads up. On the pirates' karma journey, I bought Mario Kart for Wii before getting a diamond on my ankle. I was looking for Princess Peach on a motorcycle as pictured on the cover, but it was a little out of my range for now. So, don't take it yet! Also, I bought three seasons of Portlandia and re-sold them on eBay for a steal! Well I lost money, but that was the point - pay back, pay forward. The world works sometimes if you have the patience and creativity. Updating 'Bridge Candidates' Some updates on 'Just Added Continued'

Tha Carter V - Thanksgiving title guesses 2018

2018-11-27 17:25:47

If you read the earlier update, this is the follow up post. Usually if I need to remember a song on my notes for this year's mix or in general, I write a quote from the song which is what I did for two tracks on this list because I didn't want to title them. The only title I know is 'Mona Lisa' because I hear it on the radio. lil Wayne's latest album Disc One 1. Intro 2. Don't Cry 3. Billion Dollar Smile 4. Where'd the Love Go? 5. Best Rapper Alive 6. The Breaks 7. I'll Be Waiting For You 8. Mona Lisa feat. Kendrick 9. All Night 10. Angel 11. Must Be Famous Disc Two 1. Bob Marley 2. Dope Niggaz feat. Snoop Dogg 3. Good As Golden 4. Made 5. End Titles 6. The Waiting Room 7. Demon With Demands 8. A Mess 9. MJ 10. "... and we don't even talk anymore ..." 11. Missing Subject 12. "Don't let the money come between us." Also, to add to next year's buzz I am thinking of adding a 'Woman of the future year'. I will have to listen to at least one album or do some research, etc. to finalize this choice. These future year people will be the 'one's to watch' so to speak for new and different stuff on social media, in the news or with the works they publicize or are involved in based on my guidance from God and individual intuition. They won't necessarily be associated with each other like the President and first lady, but it is something like that with a leadership role. They don't know about my choice as I don't personally talk to any of the artists I write about on this site (except through sometimes imaginary worlds and other dimensional things like prayer that can never be verified or proven real). I have attempted before to email labels, but received so little response and too much negative energy from the label I did hear back that I stopped contacting them. Happy Holidays and look forward to closing out this year with good zap.

I did as I said I would do and listened to one album and did a little research. Currently I am checking out Shakira's 'El Dorado' finally. It is pretty perfect and if you didn't know, I really love her one of a kind voice and what she does with education. I can't wait to visit your country one day. I am however going to take a shot in the dark and pick an actress I used to really admire in the TV show 'Fringe'. I used to teach English in different countries and that show really kept me inspired and imagining material for my students in Taiwan. I always named my students if they didn't have an English nickname, but always kept one reserved for if I had a daughter of my own after her character, "Olive or Olivia". I see she has been credited as a voice in a video game and acted in several TV shows since 'Fringe', but I don't know what she is doing in 2019. I don't know if you can follow her on instagram or somewhere else, but that is usually how actors and actresses do it. That is why we are so lucky with Will Smith in 2018. So, Anna Torv and lil Wayne are our "Man and Woman of the Future Year" for 2019. I still haven't decided if I am going back to the movie theater or going to try to start watching something, as I am many years behind at this point, but if I do or you do - Anna will be our guide. ## Year of tattoos continued

Yesterday I finally went to a new shop and got tattoo number six. I was trying to make it out to Red Dagger on a recommendation, but the buses don't go there on Sunday and I don't think they are open. I finally made it to Rampage Tattoo after talking to a couple other parlors. Number five was from Richmond tattoo by Brandon Madrid on Richmond and number six was from Rampage on Westheimer Rd. by Michael Hoffman in the Montrose area. I have called this street area 'tattoo alley' on airbnb city reviews as there are plenty of shops to find your available artist and/or design. Take the bus up and down Westheimer if you are in town for only a day and reserve a booking at the Hi Houston Hostel (Morty Rich) nearby or at International Hostel for affordable stays in the museum district. In the Montrose area you can find various live music and rare shopping as well as upscale shopping further west in the Galleria. By the International Hostel you can find art museums, restaurants and more. It is also possible to walk, bus or bike between the two by the connecting Montrose Boulevard. The bridge mix from the candidates and some from other non-mixed lists was completed this evening before six. If I can't get to another one, Ckwal New Year begins tonight. I'll post the list and notes as well as notes on the countdown. They are all tracks found on Beatport, so it's something you might hear by Nicky Romero or the like. I love it and hope you do too. I'll be preparing to do one more bridge at some time zone for popular new year to sequel this one. Merry Christmas tomorrow or Happy Ckwal New Year tonight.

I mixed this nearly perfect this afternoon. Instead of recording mixes for now on, I will have to plan them out with detailed notes to avoid using a monitor. Easier said than done and time consuming. 12.10.18 @ about 1:16 pm to just before 1:59 Ease My Mind (feat. Niki & the Dove) - Skrillex Bob Marley - lil Wayne Can't Stop - Dave Matthews Band Countdown (Instrumental) - Teddy Killerz Swing Break (Instrumental Mix) - The McMash Clan Perro Fiel (feat. Niky Jam) - Shakira Arcades - C2C Interlude 1 - Interpol Traffic - Burns Control Room - Fedde Le Grand Vuelve - Daddy Yankee, Bad Bunny Update 12.12.18 I mixed the original version of this mix last night (12.11.18). It was all slightly less perfect except overall probably a better impression, hard to say when you can't listen back to the mix. The above first post is the optional ending version. The original has no 'Vuelve'. I will post a picture of the notes and more info about how to mix this later. If I keep this setup, it will take more time to make mixes of various styles like the one above. I have been wanting to do a real power mix for awhile with mostly tracks of a similar tempo and that may take less time though that was the only mistake I made in the above mix (from Traffic to Control Room). I still have no theme for next year. I have been considering major changes and playing the end of this year by ear hoping to get to an epiphany. I never made it to China last year (though I received a big Chinese inkwork on my arm as you recall) and applied to go to Japan, but was not accepted. The year of the pig is upon is in Chinese New Year terms. If I don't renew my stay in Houston, I will most likely become a travel writer of sorts teaching along the way with mixes falling out of the routine and reviewing whatever and wherever I consume and visit. In other news I haven't yet posted: G Jones' debut album was released in October - 'The Ineffable Truth' I saw G Jones open up for Minnesota, I think it was, up in Breckenridge sometime ago and he really led an energetic dance party. Stay tuned to the bridge mix candidates. Along with this list, unmixed and unused selections from the year may be selected.

Mix update (In reference to recordings)

2018-12-17 19:34:48

Recently I was debating how to record future mixes. I decided to not record them because of the negative stigma DJs may be getting moving forward. Many top DJs get all the proper licenses and/or permission to even stream mixes, but generally unless you are performing live and the venue has paid the Performing Rights Organizations - it is not being done legally. This makes it difficult to compete and sort through illegal mixes and find quality music or DJs that you can be confident aren't passing on questionable material. One step further than not having public mixes to stream on any website, I have deleted every mix I have made from my own collection of purchased music. All mix lists published, unpublished and private mixes dedicated to certain people. For now that is where I stand. I will plan a mix on paper as the countdown to the bridge or practice enough to do it live with different combinations of songs on my own. I still do not plan on performing in the future. I would recommend every DJ start with this mentality or move forward respecting music this way in order to avoid regretting it later. Review all posted MixLists Update 12.19.18 I have been listening to Muse's latest album. It is classic Muse with the rock revolutionary style. We think of a revolution as a big historical event, but really we need one every day to get ourselves out of bad habits, lazy or unsafe behaviors and hateful actions and thinking. If you became vegan for example almost 100% of your world would become a revolution for most of your day.

The end of 2018

2018-12-10 17:58:54

I bought a Zoom recorder to record the mix which makes another problem in my journey. Is this even okay? If not I should quit right now and still might. The reason I got back into DJing was that there were so many good tracks that had no album or other tracks. I hated listening to one or two songs like it was the greatest thing and wearing them out as it was supposed to act as some kind of pill or quick fix. So, when I had enough to make into an album, I thought I can mix these together and listen to my own album of them. Well, whatever happens when you make a mix, your life doesn't stay the same. I was trying to save my own life with exercise and custom tailoring music for my walks and interest. That was the purpose - to save lives. What happened you might ask? I posted about this before. I don't know. Demons? People who make the mix their god or turn the music into some kind of baby? What is a baby if you aren't alive to have it? If you can't save your own life to make a mix, how can you save anyone else's? If a music label can't return your email quick enough, how can they publish a mix fast enough to save someone this 'medication' is made to fix. I fix the demon or angel inside and you try to take the prescription away, alter it and uncure the sick. So between the spirit, law and money - I should quit this adventure. It starts to do the opposite of what it was intended to do. I have prayed, complained, fought, cried and died spiritually it seems too often without any proof of any results. I am still alive, but one's health can be deceiving. You may be on track to live a hundred years, but kill yourself in your twenties. Seems suicide is pretty popular with all the ways we knowingly destroy ourselves. Just being inconsiderate and careless behind the wheel is indirectly turning us into a degree of murderers. So what's next? You don't like this song paired with that song because of THEY.'s song - 'U-RITE's theory? What if it was the cure to a certain devil's suicide that turned their spiritual life around to become a life-saving angel? That devil never dies, but it kills human beings. Now it lives forever and saves people. I'm almost done with the countdown to the countdown, but I'm stuck. I'm being terrorized by a brick wall of spirits that want to destroy me and the cure to my own agony is just as easily stolen as the air we breathe. I have to leave where I am typing this right now, but am hearing some clips from nobigdyl.'s newest release 'Solar' and it sounds recommendable.

Vegan news flash

2018-12-07 01:46:04

It seems companies not only lie, but feel the need to deceive consumers. A couple of examples. Some toilet papers have the World Wildlife Fund label on them. Is this to not feel bad about their animal testing? What about these Tide Dry Cleaners - "Proudly using GREENEARTH® CLEANING" Tide is not cruelty-free either. Also, those 'green' sponges. I think people see these and want to buy them because it makes us better humans that care about the environment. Well it may make us feel less bad to throw money at the Wildlife Fund when we are using animals in our corporations lab for other products in the line. Is the environment a bunch of green growing things without landfills? Also, it is rare to find recycling bins in Houston. Are we to trust that the main garbage collector recycles everything. I stopped asking questions to the companies because I cannot get the truth. I cannot get a response in the industry I have a College degree in with my alumni email and that degree was not cheap. I transferred Colleges and Universities three times for a five year songwriting degree. No response. I got more responses from food companies, but half the time I wanted to stop eating and stop living. So many lies. Too many problems. I'm spending most of my time working and trying to beat match on these turntables that are have inconsistent tempo readings to the built in tap function, but don't think I forgot about this. I eat the same stuff and dig just as hard to find strict vegan, non-gmo food that isn't deceptive. I still can't find a cruelty-free toilet paper. You might not want to ask someone in a store like Trader Joes, which a team member happened to claim it was cruelty free, but the fact is even when you do question - the answer is vague to unconfirmable in truth. Where did they source it from? They put their label on almost everything in the store and they sell meat. So for example of how strict I am with that. I don't buy anything branded - Trader Joes. Even if they sell a vegan verified, pareve, non-gmo etc product. I won't buy it. They support animal sacrifice for their profits. ## Bridge 2 Intro

Bridge 2 quickly fell together with some or most of the tracks from the candidates list. I added a must have or two from the unmade Mix in the Makings. It's easy enough for a novice DJ as I didn't have too much time and the songs tempos are not all mashable, though there are some sections that do my thing. It's a virtual party! I have the time zones and will basically try to get it on the first try sometime tonight. What a serious year for some of us... I still don't have a theme for 2019, but the blog will be here until 2020 as of yesterday. Lots of love to all you party goers. Make us some good tracks - to all you DJs and musicians who make our lives worth living! 🍷

2019 New Beginnings

Date

I knew someone who used this phrase like a catchy positive way of life. It has stuck with me for over ten years. Really it comes from an independent woman type whose focus was on success. Everyone thinks of new associations and moving forward as concepts similar to this. Problem many people have is they say it's all been done or all my firsts are this and that... Approaching life with this mentality creates jealousy and other unhealthy habits. One step in renewal of your life besides a vegan diet for example is religious. Christ forgives us of sin. With repentance and his help - our minds, bodies and spirits become new. Our past relationships or experiences are transformed not only individually, but in relationships. I read a book in my most recent search for renewal in such a way called "single.dating.engaged.married." It's a Christian life book. I was desperate to get out of past traps to think about a new relationship after seven years single and to give someone a chance of a new kind of single me. There is a little bit for everyone discussing the most popular topics in relationships and some I learned the hard way through failure. If anyone needs a healthy format to their mental hard drive, so to speak, surrender to Jesus on this book. Have no fear about any awkward spots or personal stuff in there because the author is a professional with proven experience and puts his trust in Jesus also to guide our lives because we all make stupid mistakes. This is the last book I've read since the bible and I rarely read. It's fairly easy to get through quickly granted your goals are in the title above. To : 'New Beginnings'

Have you ever had a "Worst day ever". I had one less than a month ago and a few consecutive days similarly up to yesterday. It's like a conspiracy against you personally. Your own pet peeves, inconveniences, annoyances, principles - all tested and perfectly timed to bring you to your knees, tears or some reckless, vengeful counter actions. I used to drink or smoke and take these kind of days out on my health. Some people talk in support groups or on the phone for hours to someone they can trust instead of unwinding in a bar or other get-together. These days I try to vent it out to myself while power-walking like I'm marching to spiel my case before the judge. Those can defeat the purpose if you are swearing towards the heavens. Yesterday I went kamikaze on my possessions or belongings. I had recently bought an edited copy of Drake's 'Scorpions' and was saving it for later. I hadn't heard the one after 'Views', so I was thinking of hunting down that one first. However I also recently discovered that Best Buy no longer carries compact discs! I resolved to get rid of all my new CD's, most of which I blogged about here and return the unopened Drake. I went to the record shop and got $9.50 for everything including my only book from the previous post. To continue the karma journey also blogged about on this site, I traded that voucher for 'Peggle Dual Shot' \(Nintendo DS\). It's a game by the company PopCap. They are geniuses at game creation, especially fairly simple concept ones that keep you casually entertained for hours. Many games I played between the years of 2007 and 2011 weren't available to me when I was teaching overseas, so I regretfully played games that were available on hacked hardware. Since my TV show/video karma/repentance journey is getting slimmer, I was thinking of adding more choices from games I spent a lot of time on in that world too. Beware of this kind of stuff in Asia as it is or was widely available in places that seem like reputable shops. Some people may think they are at least supporting the industry and company by buying accessories, hardware and what-not, but the 'chilling effects' they call it in movie piracy are real. I experienced and still do today, side effects of the seemingly harmless hobby. After it struck on my conscience when my eyes were opened, I experienced major depression and soul tax (spiritual worthlessness, loss of appetite, guilt, emptiness, etc.) For a long time it can be hole you think you can never get out of when you think of how many people are involved and associated with one movie for example, when you are reading the credits. After this portion of my day I continued to Guitar Center to try to share more with readers of this blog visually. I tried to buy a Go Pro 7 for still shots, which isn't what they are designed for, but the only place I had available credit at the moment for such an investment. After I returned home with some other accompanying purchases, I realized I received incorrect information and had to return everything to two more stores. I hope my mostly worst week ever has ended, but I tried to tell myself this morning, before doing community service around where I work, that the 'karma-scale' was still balancing itself out in my seemingly unfair extra-curricular life. Possibly the war inside my head with God was preparing me for this part of my endless journey. It sometimes feels like throwing money out the window, but if you have or will have the same problem, trust me - it's worth it. If your prayers aren't answered right away and you feel the same about some 'worst days', keep fighting it; keep trying to do the right thing. Evil is your worst enemy and wants you to fail or die. You may coast along for many years thinking nothing is wrong and think you have found one day there is no way out and can be too stubborn to turn around from the grave, but there is a lot more light in that darkness than you could ever believe. Song of the week /// Romeo Santos - La Diabla/Mi Santa feat. Tomatito

Resolutions and more

Possibly you saw the mix list had a surprise guest to the virtual party this New Years Eve. I finally bought the Ariana Grande CD after much hesitation. How could any of the songs get better after the first single release. When I heard 'God Is A Woman' I couldn't believe the lyrics I was listening to and of course they changed when I heard them differently later and I started wanting to have a songwriting meeting with her to discuss WTF is she thinking. The production is really modernly amazing and her voice is impossibly unique. I used to look up to Pharrell when he was a part of NERD, but really lost touch with what he is doing. I'm not sure I agree with all the production and stuff he did on this album, but it does balance out all the tracks I like now. These are especially near the end which are the kind of fantastic love that no one really talks about or expresses these days much. Anyways, my main resolution this year is a secret and depends on real people, but as far as Ckwal goes I want to post a few nice pictures and may be get a Go Pro or an SLR for a once a month photo. Instead of movies, like I thought I might break into, I'll focus on getting one great shot a month and highlight that into the blog. I'm not closing the door on going to the theater, but I think it would change my life too much right now. Obviously we should all see the new Aladdin when it's out. Also, if I can afford it, I might do a second year of tattoos since lil Wayne will be leading the way with this world and how it shapes life, lifestyle and environment. For Christmas I bought the entire series of Fringe and True Blood from the checklist and resold them for a little less than 25% which I am planning to put into a tattoo or something similarly serious. My goal or resolution in countable things is 12 pictures, 12 mixes, and 6-12 tattoos (depending on what happens in the other sections of my life I'm focusing on...). I also plan on getting a pretty blog template to archive everything from what you see here now in easy to find areas that also focuses on the present highlighted mission. In summary - everything is looking to be pretty much the same as the second half of last year. It was fairly exciting and could still use a lot of improvements. Good luck in deciding what you readers want to resolve with Ckwal and the music or on your own. I hope I can inspire you to do great things and consume great material.

First tattoo of the year is done (1.11.19) after seven last year (eight if you include my first at the end of 2017). It goes along with the bridge mixes and ties to the diamond and Mario Kart DS. It's the first and only one on the right side. I lost an auction for a camera, but still trying to find a way to present photo number one. I'm selecting tracks for mix one and two of 2019 soon as well, probably from the unmade 'Mix in the Makings' and 'Just Added' lists.

I'm updating the theme to Wordpress' default 2019 to get current with them. With my budget I am not going to get theme crazy again yet. I barely was able to get a camera (Sony DSC-W830) with a Zeiss lens built-in for a good price from Target. I said I wasn't going to buy Sony again after my disturbing encounter with Sony Music Russia when being diverted from Sony Music Latin. I guess I forgive them if they forgive me, not only because of the 'Karma Journey', but because they really make the best cameras and probably other devices for my preference. I hiked in the mud along the freeway for one photo last night at sunset, but settled on this one today even though I have mixed perceptions. It might be cliché, but 'we' in general pop culture have to be either cliché or ahead of our time. Mix 1's tracks are bought, or at least the core choices (13 of them). I may try to scrounge up a few dollars to add some from a different site, but this mix is closer to Bridge 1 from the end of 2018 and are available from Beatport. I realized there is a lot of music to catch up with that I haven't mixed yet. I haven't started any new lists yet.

Today is my brother's birthday. When we were younger he got me into bands like Smashing Pumpkins, No Doubt, 311 and Bush. Later he got me to buy music from Nero, Zomboy and many more. He was a part of an organization in Chicago through college that booked me my first paying solo DJ gig after touring behind Dave Matthews Band. It was an outdoor event without many active listeners, but I edited an over four hour set for it, which benchmarked our musical brotherhood. Happy Birthday Jeff.

Probably the most world reknown DJ is turning 50 tomorrow as far as I know. I'm scrambling to complete mix one of twenty nineteen by tomorrow midnight (central time CST). At one point when I was listening to all the top podcasts, which I listed on this blog, I became angry with them. I deleted all of them and proclaimed to never listen again. My iPhone was clear of mixes I listened to sometimes three plus hours a day to exercising and hiking for around a year or more. Then within a week or so, 'Tiësto's Clublife' reappeared magically on my iPhone 5, which I bought mainly to support the Clublife app at the time. I gave it one more chance and since then never gave up new music by such DJs. I eventually stopped listening to podcasts and too many mixes to make my own, but I still go back to their original tracks and labels for trustworthy selections. Thanks again and Happy 50th! May you find the energy you can't live without.

Ckwal is ahead of schedule and as the 2019-1 tattoo is healing, I'm thinking of more stuff to Ckwal's agenda because I'm out of stuff to do. The tattoo looks good, but if you are a guy shaving for the first time on a leg and using the bandage method, be prepared to take care of that for an additional week or longer. As Church Hill from Bread N' Butter in Kearney says is that we don't want it to heal too fast. Replace every few hours, washing with diluted dish soap for example, sometimes disinfecting it with rubbing alcohol. Tap dry or air dry. I experienced the 'healing too fast' with the Oasis logo and had to scrape off a few layers using a . As a vegan I recommend Saniderm though it's costly to add on top of Houston tattoo prices. Be sure to wrap it around to tape to itself so it stays on longer. What am I thinking of doing with Ckwal if I remain in single status? Probably do a movie of the month in theaters and dance club. I haven't really been to the theaters or clubs since becoming a sober vegan, but since it's a minority society of counter culturists, I should fit right in with dance parties, but butter popcorn infused air may prove more difficult. Happy MLK Jr day and keep on dreaming. My world is still changing and dreams come true. Make new ones. Just think, last year I was making leg warmers with MLK on it as one of my first sewing projects to stay warm in a homeless shelter. *Update - Strike through text on this page are because caution must be used with these brands or methods. Most plastic wrap is made by brands who do animal testing and many seemingly vegan-friendly brands may be 'fake cruelty-free'. This particular named brush is not suggested and research is recommended as many brush brands use real animal hairs.

I watched the parade for over an hour downtown and listened to speeches on a dedicated program on the portable radio all morning and afternoon. It was very inspiring. A lot of the city was marching, dancing and driving etc. Good to see everyone. I had to escape before it was over.

If anyone is updating to the new Gutenberg editor and Wordpress 2019 theme, this may be helpful to you. I bought a theme from Themeforest very quickly after looking through many over the years. I was paying by the minute at the FedexOffice store and sped through my decisions like I was trying to escape the cliff's edge. If you buy a new theme or not... Make sure you go to 'Users' > 'Your Profile' > 'Settings' and uncheck the box that says "Disable the visual editor when writing" in Visual Editor. This is if your plus box is greyed out and you cannot see the editor controls. You can work around this by typing in actual html code, but you will be limited and miss out on this really advanced editor. Thanks to <https://rudrastyh.com/plugins> for information on a post that found this fix. I discovered it just in time. Thanks Wordpress for all the years of usage on your dashboard and themes. The last theme I had for two years and couldn't really find a better one. I recommend 2019 for anyone starting out who doesn't have extra funds beyond hosting and domain name. There will be more updates besides what you see here in navigating conveniences.

I'm listening to T.I.'s latest album right now 'Dime Trap'. Skip 'The Weekend'. There are some other really explicit songs too, so I'll update in a review to let you know the best singles if you can't be bothered.

Also, my first tattoo of the year is using a font by the same company as my first tattoo. Thanks Chequered Ink for so many great choices. Chequered Ink can be found on dafont.com.

An introduction story to this post: On one of my life-defining road trips from Chicagoland to New Orleans and back several years ago before deciding to get my CDL, I carried a glass head with me. I had this since the early 2000's when I was at Berklee College of Music. It was given to me by an artist and glass blower I knew for a short time. The glass head or mannequin profile, from the neck up, was my company on the trip. I bought her a wig in New Orleans. She usually rode in the front seat. Sometimes I swear I could see souls visiting me or appearing through the glass. That was sometimes weird because she was like a future girlfriend I was imagining and the image was tainted somewhat with these spirits providing real visions. I think it was to keep me from getting too attached to an object that way. This kind of thing happens when identifying with music too if we start to have expectations about real individuals filling those unknown spaces. I brought this glass head all the way to North Platte, Nebraska. My car had broken down in Northern Nebraska in a different story on this blog. On my first walk from the tow yard mechanic's shop to downtown, I tried to carry too much and remember letting down one of my bags too quickly. I checked and felt my heart sink when it was the one with the glass and it had settled below the padding. I discovered the head fell on its nose and there were cracks leading to a hole in the middle of her face. It was my last straw in my journey this far as I felt called by God to abandon a career with CRST right after passing the refresher course to go to Denver. I cannot describe how broken I felt inside as I threw out many belongings. I wedged my original iPhone 5 I was attempting to repair under my foot and snapped it in half breaking it to pieces before throwing it away. I saved the head for awhile however until I could no longer bear to look at it and destroyed her, giving up dreams to fix it piece by piece or bring it to a glass shop to restore. These situations will make you angry or sad to give up most of your belongings. I had given up a lot already to make it this far and had to part with stuff I said I would never. Eventually it's freeing and you don't want anything to replace it. Even a second pair of clothes. On this subject - I recently gave up what I had defined as a gold life for myself. Others have different meanings for this term. I defined it in writing with Ckwal's mission statement that I sent to a few individuals. In my repentance I have also given up many habits, lifestyles and what-not. Many of these for a period of over five years. I will probably be changing some of this to a more balanced lifestyle. One reason is because Christ died for this perfection and striving towards it makes us suffer. If you deny yourself too much and still can't forgive. Seek that first. So, I did see a movie. I went to 'Glass' on Monday night. It is a thinking movie mostly set in a sort-of futuristic hospital. There are a couple scenes in the beginning that sort of leave your mind thinking the worst at first, but then the movie never answers questions. I think it's missing something, but I appreciate the space. From my perspective it didn't attempt to change my life too much, in fact I started to think of how it was saving me in time. The movie experience was ruined before the scene when the actor, who is like a hundred characters, gets shot. This was the first movie I've seen in the theaters since Zoolander 2 in 2016 and Star Wars Episode VII in 2015. I left before it was over because although I won't describe what happened, I couldn't stay in the theater. Actually before those two movies I walked out of several movies due to other patrons, bad movies or both, but I had forgotten about those experiences. I used to stay to the end of every movie no matter what, but I let that go in Ckwal's early years. Is it a matter of age or perspective that we experience so many inconsiderate people? Others movies I have seen during this gold period: I rented 'Fast and the Furious 8' and the 'War of the Planet of the Apes' when I was between Denver and Kearney and long before that, several from Redbox before moving out of Chicagoland - one of them being 'Joy'. Otherwise I avoided any moving videos except for work training at my current job to stay out of the cold when I couldn't sleep in the shelter. I was excited to share possibly twelve movies with readers of this blog in 2019 and in my draft of this post I thought, "I won't do that anymore". As my post expanded this week I decided that would be unfair to 'Glass' and the cinema culture or movie industry. I wouldn't recommend 'Glass' as a first choice though there were some good messages in the movie about believing in the impossible, the need for human contact and the concept of a place the movie called 'the light'. How many of you already experience what you see in this movie in some sense? I guess I was swayed to choose it because of Bruce Willis and Samuel L. Jackson, but they aren't the stars of the show. There are some other ones in the theaters I would think might be safer, like Mary Poppins Returns or A Dog's Way Home, but what do I know. If I get hooked, I'll do AMC's three movie a week pass and become a critic while music listeners say, "What happened to his mixes - these are bogus." Anyways... because my gold life was traded in the previews, I decided to think about choosing those movies as a tentative plan for the first months of 2019. I may go to more or less, like the sequel to Aladdin (5.24), but I'll publish this preview list (one from each future month of the previews) to end this post.

This one took forever. I kept experimenting with new combos and transitions and finally got the list together. Then I made mistakes everytime having to fix some tempo change or EQ. I finally mixed the first successful version less than an hour ago (last night by the time it is available to you). I'm planning to see 'Happy Death Day 2U' in the theaters when it opens before Valentine's Day for the movie of the month. I'll probably try to wait until the end of the month to finish the mix, but there is no telling when it'll all be finished. On tattoo #2. If this is your first year or you just started getting them it is natural to feel like you want to cover them up sometimes or like you made a big mistake. My advice is to learn how to love whatever decisions you made and try to remember what made you get it. Like music they bring us back to strong emotions or events that we don't want to forget. Phases in our lives make us move on quickly and forget people or places. In our frivolous phases we may never know what we are missing that others devote their whole lives to. I may have under appreciated some people in my life and when reviewing my past I think of how I can change that. Like the TV show 'My Name is Earl' in relation to my journey with video karma and pirating, I am on an expedition to not only right the wrongs or regrets, but to put new value to my whole life. It's really difficult learning new stuff you missed and being filled with so much hurt and regret that you would go from cursing your past to trying to put value to it in new ways besides - "I learned from my mistakes". I feel foolish these days and naive making the same errors over and over again. I promise you they are not from lack of experience. It may be God is brainwashing us to have a new life everyday. For example, the bible says the earth and universe was made in seven days. A hundred year life is simply fifty-two hundred universes. Can we imagine where God is in the development of what we call 'our futures'? No matter what each one of us believes, our complex or simple existences don't end in religion, science or even relationships.

Tracks are bought from the Mini MixList I added at the end of a recent previous post I was pointing to and last year's unmade 'Just Added' lists. Still deciding about 'Movie of the Month' for several reasons, though I may still go tonight. Tattoo #2 for February is done from the monthly checklist. I added to the first, or Alan did, from Rampage. It's the third I have from this shop in the Montrose, Houston area. I recommend it and will probably return. The orchids are from a book I found in Chinatown by a Chinese artist named Guohua Jiaocheng. There are also three bees from the same magazine or small book in which I wanted to add because it made me think of Ariana Grande who I have seen getting a tattoo behind her ear on instagram previously. Good luck on your new album's reception, which I already saw in the store this morning. Side note: I am having some issues with making new posts from my phone, so if you see typos or misprints, please be patient as I may not be able to see or fix them until I reach a desktop. 'Photo of the Month' is below.

I posted Mix 1 which I finished with no prep. It wasn't totally perfect. There will be no notes unless I remix it which is possible. In other news I have finally been added to the bethematch.org registry. It takes a while to send in your DNA and have it processed, so if you want to get waiting while doing regular blood donations like myself, go to the website and order your kit. It's less universal to donate bone marrow, so more waiting, but important to start the process earlier.

I went around on the bus thinking of posting a date-night idea before going back to the theater, but never ended up seeing a flick. I practiced this shorter mix this morning and luckily did one presentable one to share on this holiday. Feb. 14, 2019 8:14 - 8:53 Party (feat. J Cole) - Beyoncé Kill the Beat - LOUD ABOUT US! # Houston Valentine

2019-02-15 00:26:04

It might be too late for anyone to use this general easy date, but I'll share it anyway for a couple or group to use another night.

Head over to Cafe Annie for some drinks outside.

6 BLVD Place, 1800 Post Oak Blvd #6170, Houston, TX 77056

It's open until 10pm and there is a lot of shopping nearby, but if you get bored and there is enough time, catch a ride to Micro Center or take bus 33 South on Post Oak to browse the devices or latest computer building equipment. Your man will love it and you might too for a project to build together. (closes at 9 - so you could go in the morning if you are hungover or whatever)

5305 S Rice Ave, Houston, TX 77081

Make sure you book a room at Hyatt House Houston/Galleria. When I saw it, I read Home2 on the sign from Richmond near Sage.

3440 Sage Rd, Houston, TX 77056

There is also a vegan option advertised at a restaurant on the right side of the road from Richmond and Sage going Westbound called India's. (closes at 10pm) You can probably walk or take bus 25 going West (unless she has some limited edition heels, I wouldn't push it) .

5704 Richmond Ave, Houston, TX 77057

When I went over this, I bussed from the bar to Micro Center and walked to the area where the hotel is and just saw the restaurant on the bus back to where the theater area is on Dunvale. If you are going to that AMC theater, get off at the stop on Dunvale, turn right and you will see it with a short walk on the right. I did see a Lyft outside of Micro Center, but if you have the apps there are also plenty of Uber drivers I would guess. 'Happy Death Day 2U' is on at 11pm tonight and I think 'If Beale Street Could Talk' is at 10pm, or at least it was last night.

Three albums

Date

2019-02-13 18:21:07

Also considering these albums for Mix 2. They are all worth getting even though you may have heard or will hear a lot of them on the radio.

Twenty One Pilots - Trench

Post Malone - beerbongs & bentleys

Lauren Daigle - How Can It Be

First favorite tracks are 1,7 & 1 respectively.

I saw Lauren Daigle for the first time in a music video when I was staying at Star of Hope in Houston and really liked her voice. At the time I think 'Trust In You' was my favorite. I got into Twenty One Pilots when I bought the last album and was really surprised at how they were really an album type band even though they get over-played on the radio. Before I heard 'My Blood' I was so sick of hearing their most famous track that I didn't want to think about this band again because I had sold all my albums as you may remember for a dollar or so before moving from my hometown of Libertyville, Illinois several years ago. Post Malone I hear on the radio like everyone else, but was actually inspired by the tattoo artist named 'Bear' from Violet Tiger to buy the album after he played 'Stay' for me right after getting the Korean 'Oasis' tattoo on my arm. I bought all three of these albums recently before my Orchids tattoo and bought a Nintendo DS 2D. I wanted something else to do to get my mind off things. The next day I was woken up early and decided to return the DS and go back to Rampage that night.

Update 2.15

2019-02-16 00:50:45

Mix 2 Part I is now Mix 2 (Valentines' Edition). I am making an official Mix 2 using the power tracks base of the Valentines' Edition and supercharging it with some more I have left. It ends differently and there is no 'Party' or 'Bleeding in Love'. I'll post notes eventually, but next week is probably too busy if I can't make it to the library on Sunday. I'm all set for an overnight in Dallas this time next week. I also decided to stay in Houston for a year despite the worst start to a year since I was born, but positively flying by with CKWAL homework. This next mix is mostly a workout with a cool down and will use up most of the bonus tracks from last year, so I'll need to start listening to new stuff from the feeds as I have been on CDs and last year's finds.

I'll start adding to this. I'm not necessarily making mixes from these as works separate from each other. They are guidelines with tracks appearing when I discover them or after I have written some down offline. # Movie of the Month (preview)

2019-02-21 16:55:15

I made it on time to the Red Cross blood drive and later checked in at the hostel in Deep Ellum. It's a unique neighborhood with lots of hang out spots, bars and tattoo shops. I took a walk across this area and some nearby communities that are very European and culturally diverse like walking through different countries. In the evening I decided to venture out further to the other edge of town where I saw 'What Men Want' at Alamo Drafthouse. I'll post pictures and try to write about this later. Possibly I'm too sensitive from not seeing videos in so long, but this is really explicit. The meaning of the movie is almost overshadowed by shock value. There is some impressive acting, but one of the reasons I saw it besides timing of when I showed up, was Tracy Morgan. He is barely a supporting lead even though pictured on the poster. I was a fan of '30 Rock' when I taught in Taiwan, but that too was a long time ago in relation to my lifestyle changes. I'd still like to see 'Alita'. I'm worried every movie I choose will be difficult to write about with only one a month, so I may have to see more and pick the best one. This was the first time I've been to a theater like Drafthouse which also serves a Vegan menu and full drink menu from your seat. I'm still too strict to eat out Vegan like this, but considering a change.

Update 2.23.19

2019-02-23 20:42:08

I'm working on a surprise mix that incorporates some Toolroom house music from a huge compilation I bought from Beatport on a 'steal of sale' awhile ago with some of the unused tracks that I still have on the USB keys. This music I analyzed over one hundred tracks during the end of last year when I had no money for new music and found these remaining in my online Berklee drive. I got rid of so much music and files when I sold my hard drives after breaking down in Nebraska, but there were these tracks. I listened to them all, got BPMs and basic remembrances written down and marked my favorites which I will be putting together in new ways. Write you later.

February's 'Movie of the Month'

Date

2019-02-24 21:03:25

Let me tell you a bit more about 'What Men Want'. Well I looked away from many full scenes. I wouldn't recommended it if you are sensitive to explicit stuff. I had just donated blood after a four hour bus ride and several other transportation connections. So I'll just say that the experience was about as extreme as you get...humanistically. I was like - grossed out too. Let's say a few good words, philosophize, then sum it up. Taraji P. Henson was the real acting star. Of course there is feminism here, but not too typical. She could get you embarrassed or feeling totally insane and probably motivated to try harder at work or relationships because let's face it, compromise or plain giving up is easier or truthfully what most people do. After high school some stuff is too difficult. Especially if you are sober. What people want in general is for all the problems to go away or solve themselves, while the fun part never ends! Finding your role at work, life and with your significant other is a big part, your responsibility. Fate lines people up sometimes, but from there it can be the biggest battle. Especially when humans and spirits want you apart. One great individual can change the world forever; one amazing couple is a threat to all established civilization. Probably with a different cast this movie would have been unbearable unless you were a Vegas worker with a stellar sense of humor, but hard to say. Really the sense of humor with these performances could be like therapy as people in 2019 are mostly online and in that, don't or can't express themselves at work or in person. It's dysfunction. It's in the rules for our protection and from mistakes which keeps success a priority sometimes by accident to those habitual to doing what they are told. Proclaim this and I watch everyone running an awkward social race to catch up for a day or two and then it goes away due to uncomfortable controversy to what rules were broken, the social standards in jeopardy or laziness and the fact that somebody said 'TMI!', until you start squeaking the wheel. So the message overall at the end is good and not too sappy, but as I am critical these days with the role I have been shaped in by the blog - I can imagine I'll probably see one more movie for February cause I'm rambling for the story here to avoid the fact that it's over the top with graphic nature and language even when having closed my eyes. The best part was probably Erykah Badu's character and outtakes that round off the credits.

In the below scans, I have included some albums the main being the tracks I selected from for the surprise mix in the previous post. This may be useful if you buy Toolroom Ten, but there is more. I didn't totally finish as you see, but this was some serious homework over the holidays at the end of 2018 that helped me stay on budget and busy.

Update 2.25

2019-02-25 18:24:56

Just when you think you have made it through the worst... An eye of the storm is a cliché phrase for when there is a break between or during a natural disaster suddenly. I have witnessed one in Kaohsiung, Taiwan. I looked up into the eye of the typhoon and could see the gigantic hole in the swirl or sky directly above when I sensed the wind had died down and the downpour stop. This morning I was sure I would cancel Ckwal's journey as I feel many times. I was sure I would change my artist name once again to bury myself and avoid the suffering I felt for what I may be taking for preparation without choice.

I sold one turntable to make an emergency payment on a credit card that I overcharged by $3.60 when I accidentally used the wrong card due to low battery on my phone buying a 3 CD Chinese dance music album in a shop in Chinatown. I have been losing faith for the first time in my life and if you trust I am telling you the truth on my blog, it is probably the hardest thing you can experience or go through. I always feel the eye of the storm from spiritual torment or real relationship unrest and usually despise it because I know it is there to usually make me buy something or lose someone important. Most of my life was like being in the eye until I was about thirty-three years old. It was never easy, but I wrote songs about depression or spirits I felt were with me as a remedy I felt was a gift from God. Now I am suspicious of those 33 years as my gifts I give almost out of spite from what feels like everything is being taken away. Anything I appreciate or value is only a tool to give up more or to feel something that needs to be databased like a pill for alien research.

To stay positive: I'll publish my surprise mix later tonight and keep you updated on how I am going to make the next mix after seeing another movie if 'allowed'. Two quotes that have gotten me through years of hardship consistently I present you:

As Calvin Harris once said on Twitter when I was following on the social networks, "Sometimes we didn't know how we were going to make it, but we did." and song lyrics from Tiësto's mix that he may have reiterated, "How was I to know our love would grow."

I try to give you everything on this blog not to be entertaining a lot of time, but to save someone else's life as it has mine. You may feel like you are being robbed most of the time, but even if you lose all faith - trust I'll try to find a solution while I am still here.

Appalled II

2019-03-01 05:06:54

I finally got my tax return and thought I could pick up a device to share on the blog and use as one of my turntables. I even signed up for the unlimited cell phone plan for the first time since I can remember, mainly to think about calling record labels since I am already kamikaze. I put a down payment on the XS with two year plan and went to work. I rushed over to the store to pick up the case after work and was about to walk out when I see - Apple branded leather cases. I saw the red ones online around when I was going to Dallas to donate my 11th unit of blood and I was in disbelief. ProductRED or whatever it is about saving lives due to HIV research. Vegan phones, I thought, protected by cow skin support disease research hand in hand with cow slaughter. Am I missing something? This has been for years too, not new. As I walked back a speeding tow truck almost ran me over in the wrong lane. Are people angry at God, the Devil, each other? It's difficult to proceed in many ways at the point I've reached because I know an afterlife exists. I'm not looking forward to it. People living in reverse, from what starting point?, may not know of life and death? Leather is not fashionable anymore. It is taboo. Fashions change overnight and so do standards. You can't live forever happy with a trillion dollar industry or whatever it is knowing the sacrifice when society's biggest brainwash wears off. I return the phone tomorrow not only because of this, but no audio jack. Steve Jobs sharing the same first name as I, rolled in his grave on my near collision with a reckless tow truck on my walk home as I thought of what Apple could do to make me keep this device. Like Nike shoes selling leather unnecessarily when a whole world famous brand could be cruelty-free even is another company saying for some reason that it is okay condescendingly. Ella Mai's extended shot-clock due to my A.M.'s brainwash. Don't forget next year has 29 days in February.

March

New mix, new movie, new photo, another tattoo... Some of the tracks are adding up at Mix Pieces A. The iPhone was pretty amazing to work with, but it had to be returned. I'm starting over again with some optimism this month. A lot of everything from the last few months were carried over with a dedication and other stuff that didn't work out, so March feels like a new year again (or it will by the end of it). I just need to get another Numark most likely to replace the used one I pawned unless the Google Pixel 4 shows up with a vegan attitude or some other miracle. 'Greta' is already in theaters.

March's 'Movie of the Month'

Date

2019-03-04 17:13:10

I was excited to see 'Greta' in the previews of 'Glass', but decided to see 'Alita' on a whim last night in a third theater. This one is also near where I live in Houston. Besides possible leather seats in this cinema (and the last theater), it was the best experience so far. I'm usually thinking it is fake leather, like the last theater in Dallas, because it seems like it would be too expensive and difficult to clean. So, if you are a crazy vegan like me going to one of these theaters and get a chance, call and ask them before you buy a ticket. I'll ask next time I go. 'Alita' was very unusual in some ways. I'm not going to write too much about it because I'm not a movie critic. I have been comparing my life to the movies, or what parts they remind me of, and this one is pretty futuristic with robot humans. Ideas that have been in my imagination, but haven't really taken hold in how I act in life. Seems like this could have been a series or with multiple sequels like 'Hunger Games' because there are a lot of areas that are not totally developed, like the battles. I was losing my attention span at one point of the movie, so I figured they did that to hold our desensitized culture. I thought seeing more movies would make me not want to move much in my life, but it is sort of revealing a hole in my soul or desires that I have buried so what, like travel. The guy who made the first robot body is a little creepy at first and the general feeling at the beginning of the movie is strangely awkward, but that passes after some time into it. Overall I appreciated that it doesn't rely on bad language, though it isn't an innocent family movie so-to-speak.

March's Tattoo

Date

2019-03-08 19:56:20

I had a couple of art designs I was pondering that would take a big hunk of money and time. One to add to the shrine or whatever you call it on my right Achilles heel. Instead I was able to fit two more Pacman ghosts next to the Antone from Richmond Tattoo did at the end of the year. One is true to 'Pinky' and the two I just got done yesterday at the mall near my apartment are orange with bright red eyes and blue with teal eyes. I was visiting this shop several times about piercings called 'Rockstar Tattoo' and speaking with the counter lady - Juana. The artist has some pretty good prices and different way of working *(update - I heard he left this shop, but his contact number can be found at that instagram link). Rockos is in a mall and there can be lots of visitors with the building closing early. Tattooing usually starts at 11. Pacman was my XX girlfriend's favorite game or one of those ones she played when bored at the bar in Boston for no better reason. The orange choice ties back to the Achilles heel. Teal reminds me of my second visit to Russia looking for a lady named Tonya who I promised to visit again, but we lost contact with each other. Moscow the third time around was not as easy as the first or second in 2012 when I nearly moved into a highrise at an unbeatable price to complete my dream of living and teaching there. I ended up staying in a hostel before Christmas in early December a few years ago and in the city it was dirty, sludgy, cold and a competition basically for something. I ran to St. Petersburg to meet friends there, but barely escaped with enough money to the U.S. because nothing was happening successfully. All three of these ghosts are lined up, mostly hiding inside my left bicep area. Mix 3 is underway too, or part one is... I have the list and ready to attempt a full run through. It is the most challenging mix, I think, since I started and I don't think the next one will be easy either.

I mixed a nearly perfect banger last night, but hit the pause button on accident during the third song for a second. After the fifth attempt this morning, I decided to post the list. I'll show notes tomorrow. They are hard to read, but mostly down to the crucial second or sound change necessary to make these transitions happen. My favorite is from 'Polar' to 'Ferrari'. Drop the tempo and pitch to negative 39.10 percent just before 18 seconds left (Master Tempo Off) and play at -18s. I EQ 'Polar' down on the highs and mids and add bass for the whole track. From the one Chinese dance CD, I bought three more CDs recently and decided to replace the used Numark with a new one of the same model. I listened to Bebe Rexha's 'Expectations', Kelsea Ballerini's 'Unapologetically' and Gorillaz' 'The Now Now'. I was in the mood for some Gorillaz and it was what I was expecting or hoping for. Bebe really surprised me as I didn't want to like this album for some reason when I was driving in Nebraska listening to Payton on the Thunder radio. Actually this is what I expected Payton to look like. The hit songs are overplayed, but are good. The production is amazing and her voice is too. She could probably be an old jazz singer in the roaring 20's or something if our society could handle that. The production on Kelsea's album is really country pop solid. They know what they are doing and rarely seem imperfect especially in modern country.

I visited Nashville on a school trip from Berklee and there are so many serious songwriters and companies that form the industry from pen or pencil to the ears. I guess some of the manual feel is what I miss though. I used to make albums without professional session drummers and off any sort of click and never paid attention to numerical tempo. You can really tell the difference, but obviously we make unintended mistakes this way and it may depend on what's in our system, on our nerves or what relationships we are in... The same goes for these musicians writing their own songs, but they make them so perfect for albums that I get the impression they are super-human contrary to the meaning in the lyrics. So, we would have to see some of these real sensitive people, from what I would guess, live to get a different take on them. Even Ariana who is a part of writing most of her songs seems like a fragile, precious being. I would say all three of these shows would be good live, if I were to gamble on the concept. I'm almost finished analyzing the tracks of the three-disc Chinese dance set which has some good stuff to listen to. There are some annoying rap clips in English that don't seem to fit and other so-so tracks that sample some songs and I don't know if they have been properly cleared, but it has some traditional singers and sounds mixed with some old-school dance and video game sound, house rock, Chinese house and shuffle mixed music that would be good in all sorts of settings. I can also hear some of Tiësto's influences from his last Club Life.
